BYRNES REJECTS RUSSIAN OR BRITISH PACT IDEA

SAYS MANCHURIA FACED BY CRISIS

Marshall Seeks To Extend Peace Formula Into That Area

RICH REGION PICTURED ALMOST NO-MAN'S LAND

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall disclosed today that urgent measures are being taken jointly by American and Chinese officers to extend into Manchuria a peace formula consistently successful so far in other parts of China.

The general, here to report to President Truman on his efforts as the chief executive's troubleshooter in the Far East, called the situation in Manchuria "a critical state of affairs."

While Marshall discussed reasons for the Manchurian crisis guardedly, he told a questioner he did not know whether Russian forces, which recently withdrew from Mukden, are evacuating all Manchuria. Along with this uncertainty he pictured the vast, rich region almost as a political no-man's land, in which as the Russians do pull back, Communist factions until otherwise ordered tend to contest the agreed right of central government forces to take over and run the territory. This, he said, already has caused a series of minor clashes.

Throughout a long news conference, however, the military-leader-turned-diplomat took a tone of general optimism conditioned by two requirements which he said were elementary: That the United States give assistance to the Chinese and that other nations not scheme deliberately against reincorporation of the rich Manchurian territory into a unified, peaceful China.

He laid heavy emphasis on the operations of "unity" teams of Ameri-

DROWNS AFTER PLANE CRASHES

Three Others Escape When Aircraft Goes Into Pontchartrain

NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—(AP)—One man drowned and three others were rescued here this afternoon when their two-engined airplane from Colorado Springs, Colo., crashed into Lake Pontchartrain near the New Orleans airport.

The dead man was identified by his companions as Ralph Dubberly, about 34, of Colorado Springs. His body was being sought.

Those rescued were D. M. Alexander, 52, and Michael McInaney, also 52, vice-presidents of the Alexander Film Company of Colorado Springs; and Donald Ringsted, the pilot, also of Colorado Springs.

McInaney suffered lacerations about the head and was taken to Charity Hospital for treatment after being first treated at the army transportation school's infirmary. His condition was said to be not serious.

The other two survivors were only shaken up.

McInaney said the party had come here immediately from Dallas, Texas, to attend a motion picture advertisers

BIG ST. PATRICK'S PARADE IS STAGED

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—It really was a great day for the Irish on Fifth avenue today as 75,000 sportive wearers of the green paraded in bright sunlight in honor of Ireland's patron saint.

The proverbial luck of the Irish held for the first time since 1935. In the years intervening New York City weather for the annual St. Patrick's day parade was as wet and misty as the old sod itself.

Maybe the box of 400 double-lucky shamrocks received by Mayor William O'Dwyer from Peadar S. Doyle, lord mayor of Dublin, had something to do with it.

A police-estimated 1,500,000 New Yorkers, many wearing green ties, green shirts—even green bobby-sox—lined the route of the 116th annual parade, shouting, laughing, sometimes doing impromptu clog dances on the sidewalk.

The skirl of bagpipes and the staccato sound of fife and drum made jaunty marching tunes for the paraders, led by veterans of "The Fighting Irish," the 165th infantry. Behind them were veterans of the old 69th and Rainbow divisions and representatives of many Irish-American societies.

Outside St. Patrick's cathedral 25 Catholic Church dignitaries, including five bishops, were seated to wave a benign greeting in accordance with long-established custom.

O'Dwyer, a County Mayo boy himself and the city's first Irish-born mayor since 1894, was in the reviewing stand at 64th street with Governor Thomas E. Dewey and Leo T. McCauley, consul general of Eire at New York.

Russian Newspaper Says Iran Oil Fields Figure In Soviet's Safety

Accuses That Nation Of Faoring United States And Britain

By Eddy Gilmore

MOSCOW, March 16.—(AP)—The newspaper Izvestia declared today that northern Iran oil fields were of "primary significance" to Russian security, and charged that Iran four times broke the Soviet-Iranian treaty of 1921 by granting to United States and British firms oil concessions previously held by Russia.

The government newspaper accused Iran of discriminating against Russia in oil concessions, of threatening Soviet security, and of seeking to instigate conflicts between the Soviet Union and other great powers. The latter charge was made in another article in Izvestia Thursday.

Izvestia asserted that when Russia in 1944 proposed renewal of her former oil concessions in the north, the proposal met "raving resistance from the Iranian ruling upper crusts.

"It is not permissable," said Izvestia, "to forget about all these facts which have serious meaning in the development of relations between the Soviet Union and Iran."

The 1921 treaty, it said, stipulated that Iran would not give concessions to foreign interests in northern Iran, but that Iran had granted them to three American and one Dutch-British firm in this area adjacent to the southern Soviet frontier and close to Russian oil bases in Baku and Turkmen. These concessions, said Izvestia, were threats to Russian security.

The newspaper said the violations of the treaty were a concession to Standard Oil in November, 1921; to Sinclair Oil in December, 1923; to Delaware Oil on January, 1937, and to the Anglo-Dutch company, said to be a subsidiary of Royal Dutch Shell, in March, 1939.

All were cancelled later, but only after Soviet protests, it added.

Iran, it continued, granted the concessions on grounds she did not have the financial and industrial means for self-development.

But this, it charged, was "only a maneuver" exposed by the Soviet proposal a year and a half ago for concessions. These, it said, would have given Iran great benefits and removed "one of the serious obstacles in the way of improving Soviet-Iranian relations."

The newspaper cited what it said were enormous concessions held by the Anglo-Iran Oil Company in

MAY NOT SIGN COTTON ORDER

Anderson Reported Withholding Approval Of OPA Directive

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson was represented today by a cotton state senator as intending to withhold his approval from an OPA order increasing margin requirements for cotton futures trading.

This senator, who withheld the use of his name, said that the present laws require the approval, in writing, of the secretary and that the order would not be valid without Anderson's positive action.

Anderson met with a committee of southern senators today. He declined comment afterwards. However, one of those who met with him said that Anderson plans to ignore the order and to proceed with plans for a week's tour of the west.

It was learned meanwhile, that the OPA has invited heads of cotton exchanges to meet here Monday to discuss the proposed order.

SOUTHERN SENATORS TALK WITH ANDERSON

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Southern senators cited to the secretary of agriculture today a law which they said makes illegal a recent OPA action increasing margin requirements for cotton futures trading.

Both Secretary Anderson and Senator Bankhead (D.-Ala.), who headed the Senate group, declined comment on their conference this afternoon. But Bankhead said that Anderson's attention had been called to a section of the Emergency Price Control Act as amended in 1945 which states:

"Notwithstanding any other provisions of this or any other law no action shall be taken under this act by the administrator or any other person without prior written approval of the secretary of agriculture with re-

Phillips, 44, of Baton Rouge died this afternoon while riding a motor bike on Choctaw road here and Dr. Harry Johnston, East Baton Rouge Parish corner, said that his death was apparently from natural causes. The man fell from the bike, Dr. Johnston said, and died before he reached a hospital.

Boy Saves Child From Well

Clarence Moats (right), 14, finally overcame his modesty and has admitted that he saved the life of his two-year-old cousin, "Cookie" Cissoms (left), in deep water of a 40-foot well near Benton, Tenn., two weeks ago. Seeing the child fall through well flooring, Clarence slid down a rope, braced his feet against one side and held "Cookie" above water for an hour until help came. Flesh was torn from Clarence's hands as he slid down the rope, and he's still wearing bandages. (AP Photo).

Nine Killed, 29 Hurt In Storms

Widespread Damage Caused In Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 16.—(AP)—At least nine persons were dead and 29 injured tonight in the wake of scattered tornadoes and wind and rain storms which swept out of the Mississippi valley and left widespread damage in Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia.

All the fatalities were reported in four Alabama counties near the Mississippi line. The area was struck by winds estimated at more than 50 miles an hour.

Two Negroes were killed and two others fatally injured in Marengo county, near Demopolis; two others lost their lives in adjoining Sumter county, two more died in Hale county, and one in Tuscaloosa.

Greene county also felt the lash of winds, and the Red Cross reported some hurt. Marengo listed five injured, Sumter four, Tuscaloosa two and Hale one.

Frank McGurk, state relations director for the Red Cross, estimated that 120 homes were destroyed or damaged in the four counties, with more than 200 families affected. The Red Cross immediately set up a rehabilitation center at Demopolis to care for the injured and homeless.

The Tuscaloosa fatality was identified as Andrew Ryns of Big Sandy, Ala., his wife, Mary, was seriously injured.

The tornado first struck at the small town of Kewanee, 16 miles east of Meridian, Miss. Mrs. Edward Boswell was

CARRIERE PLANS TO CONTINUE IN RACE

NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—(AP)—Oliver P. Carriere said tonight he definately would remain in the race for state senator for the Eighth district.

His action makes it certain that a runoff Democratic primary will be held Tuesday between Carriere and Capt. Alexander E. Rainold, high man in the first election.

Rainold is endorsed by Mayor-Designate de Lesseps S. Morrison. Today William A. Bisso, Fourteenth ward leader for the Old Regular Democratic organization, Mayor Robert S. Maestri's faction, announced he also would support Rainold. Bisso was eliminated as a senatorial candidate in the first primary.

Carriere is supported by Henry Heaton and Anthony Herrle, Old Regular leaders in the two other wards included in the district.

HOOVER WON'T VISIT RUSSIA

Scratches Nation From List After It Offers Food To France

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Russia has been removed from the list of countries which Herbert Hoover will visit on his famine-inspection tour.

This was learned here today as the former president, food administrator during World War I, packed his bags in New York for a hunger-inspection trip which may take him around the world.

Hoover is scheduled to leave New York tomorrow for a flight to Paris to begin a check on what President Truman has called the worst food crisis in modern times. He is expected to be gone about five weeks. The journey under present plans will take him to every European country appealing for American food, and possibly to India.

When he accepted President Truman's invitation to make a survey of food needs of war-torn and famine-stricken countries, Hoover and government food officials included Russia in his itinerary. Russia, along with most of Europe, has asked for American assistance.

But when it became known here this week that Russia had offered to supply France with 250,000 tons of wheat, the government scratched the Soviet Union from Hoover's visiting list. Officials explained that the inspection trip had been intended to include only those countries asking for and needing American food.

They said Russia's action in offer-

DENIES AMERICA TAKING JAP GOLD

TOKYO, Sunday, March 17.—(AP)—General MacArthur's economic chief today flatly denied Russian press reports that the United States army is moving valuable metals from Japan to America.

"The millions of dollars worth of gold, silver, platinum and jewelry are still under military guard in the vaults of the bank of Japan," said Maj. Gen. W. F. Marquat, chief of the economic and scientific section of SCAP (supreme commander, Allied powers).

TIMES TO ERECT MODERN BUILDING

Shreveport Paper And KWKH To Be In Streamlined Structure

SHREVEPORT, March 16.—(AP)—A streamlined, ultra-modern new home for the Shreveport Times and its 50,000-watt radio station, KWKH, will be constructed at a downtown site, John D. Ewing, editor and publisher of the Times and president of KWKH, announced today.

Construction will start as soon as materials not required for residential housing are available. The cost of the new plant, including real estate, buildings and equipment, will be in excess of $1,250,000.

The plant, which will consist of three units, all with new equipment throughout, is the first major post-war construction project announced for Shreveport. It will be air-conditioned for summer cooling and winter heating.

The four-story main building, with an exterior of limestone and granite, will house the news, advertising and circulation departments, KWKH studios and offices of Times and KWKH executives. The adjoining three-story mechanical building, separated from the main building so that mechanical vibrations will not affect KWKH broadcasting, will house a new high-speed press, all of the mechanical departments and the Shreveport Engraving Company.

Extending from the mechanical building to the Illinois Central railroad tracks, a storage building will receive newsprint direct from freight cars.

"This new plant for the Times and KWKH will rank with the finest of its kind anywhere," Mr. Ewing said in announcing the project. "It has long been my intention to bring the newspaper and radio station together in a single establishment and but for the war and war-time shortages the plant would now be in operation.

"The new home will be built not just to serve a utilitarian purpose, but to represent Louisiana and Ark-La-Tex (the surrounding territory) creditably in the field of newspapers and radio. I feel sure that for many years in the future the new Times-KWKH plant will be a source of pride for the people of this region.

"The other owners of the Times and KWKH—my sister, Mrs. Esther Ewing Brown, and my brothers, James L. Ewing, Robert Ewing and Wilson Ewing—share with me the feeling that the new home for these two enterprises will stand as a splendid milestone on the journey begun by the Times when our father, the late Colonel Robert Ewing, acquired it in 1908."

The tract on which the plant will be built fronts 201 feet on Lake street and 320 feet on Market street. Buildings which were on the tract have been removed in preparation for construction.

UNITY DINNERS ARE SET BY DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—The Democratic party scheduled a series of "unity" dinners for congressmen today in an effort to close a split in their ranks.

Five of the gatherings have been arranged by the national committee and congressional leaders.

They told newsmen they hope the sessions will promote harmony and better feeling among the legislators, and thus:

1. Woo back into the fold straying elements particularly a bloc of southerners, some of whom have lined up frequently in a coalition with Republicans.

2. Encourage united support for the administration's bogged-down legislative program.

3. Solidify the party for the national elections this year, when all the 435 representatives and 32 of the 96 senators face ballot tests.

One leader, who asked not to be named, described the dinners as "our answer to the coalition movement."

He said he referred to a recently-launched attempt to organize Republicans and southern Democrats for control of pending OPA legislation.

Approximately 100 members of both parties met and authorized naming of a bi-partisan committee, headed by Representative Hartley, Republican, New Jersey. Since then, however, three of the five Democrats picked have repudiated the organization, although asserting they will continue to vote independently from the party when they see fit. Scores of other Democrats also have issued statements denying association with such a coalition.

Groups of 40 to 50 lawmakers are being invited to each of the "unity" dinners.

3 DEAD, 130 HURT IN BERLIN BLASTS

BERLIN, March 16.—(AP)—A series of accidental ammunition explosions shattered the Alexander Kaserne building, mid-town headquarters of German civilian and Russian military police today, killing at least three persons and injuring 130.

Police continued to search the wreckage and it was feared the casualties would go higher. A police announcement said the explosions were accidental. The building is in the Soviet sector of the city.

The dead included one German policeman and two civilian women. The injured included 45 seriously hurt and 85 others requiring treatment. In addition there were dozens who suffered cuts and lacerations from shattered glass and debris.

Red army troops and civilian police seeded off the blast area. Public safety officers of the other occupying powers and reporters from the American, British and French zones were barred. American and British units sent ambulances and offered hospital facilities.

The three blasts, the last an explosion which could be heard for miles, originated in ammunition stored on the grounds of the police barracks in Kleine Alexander street, the German police report said. It added that the ammunition had been "collected from unknown owners and was waiting to be transported away."

Many persons living in the neighborhood or walking through the area at the time were injured as the explosion spread debris for blocks around. One German policeman was reported to be among those killed.

U. S. Depends On United Nations

RED CROSS IN SERIOUS NEED

Must Carry On For Service Men Still In Uniform

Only slightly more than one-sixth of the 860,000 goal of the Red Cross Ouachita parish campaign for 1946 is as yet raised and the month of March is half gone. The support of the Red Cross is a duty that devolves upon the public and especially upon all those who had members of their families in armed service or who are still serving their country on land and sea at this time. Their well being is bound up in the work that the Red Cross is able to perform in their behalf and this service requires money.

The slogan this year is "Your Red Cross Must Carry On" and Ouachita parish never falls down on a duty like this and can not start such an unenviable record now. Many communities in this state have already fully subscribed their quotas to Red Cross and we are informed that some raised the amount sought in a single day's time.

It may be that some people think that as the war is over the need is ended. That Red Cross can now fold up. There can be no more erroneous idea than this for Red Cross not only sustains by its unselfish ministry the men and women undergoing the tremendous strain of warfare but it carries on when disaster strikes any American city or town. Its disaster relief work is outstanding and fills a niche such as no other remedial organization is able to fill. We of Ouachita parish in flood and drouth have received abundant past aid financially when we have gone through such misfortunes in the past so that no one here is able with just cause to question the workings of this organization.

The burden of the post-war age on Red Cross is almost as great as when the conflict raged. There remains the task of looking for the welfare of convalescents, blood plasma is essential. There are surgical dressings needed. Thousands upon thousands of our own men are scattered over the far-flung globe whose dependence is largely upon the shoulders of the Red Cross.

Let's make that quota and at the earliest, even if it takes all or part of a day's pay check. No one will ever miss the money that this personal sacrifice may require.

FOUR DEAF-MUTES TELL ON ANOTHER

NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—(AP)—There wasn't a word spoken today when four people "told" on a fifth to police to him and saw him arrested for investigation in connection with alleged confidence games.

All five persons involved were deaf-mutes.

Two couples went to the first precinct station and, by means of notes, explained they had read in a California publication for deaf-mutes of the escapades of a man they believed to be in New Orleans. Accompanied by three policemen, they went to a recreation club for deaf-mutes here and pointed out the man they meant.

He was booked as a fugitive from justice in California, Minnesota and other states.

Secretary Of State Asks Extension Of Selective Service Act

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes rejected tonight any idea of an alliance with Russia against Britain or Britain against Russia. He declared the United States bases its hopes for security on the United Nations Organization "as the path to enduring strength."

In a speech prepared for a meeting of the "Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick" at the Hotel Astor, Byrnes called for extension of the selective service act beyond the expiration date of May 15.

Even now, he said, the leaders of the government "are alarmed" at the lack of physically fit men to keep the army up to strength and unless the draft law is renewed "the situation will become critical."

Byrnes expressed his "wholehearted and unequivocal endorsement of the proposal for universal military training" as a long-term assurance of trained reserves.

He said the United States needs military strength to support if necessary the purposes and principles of the United Nations charter.

"I cannot emphasize too strongly," he declared, "that the United States looks to the United Nations as the path to enduring peace.

"We do not propose to seek security in an alliance with the Soviet Union against Great Britain or in an alliance with Great Britain against the Soviet Union."

Byrnes did not say who, if anyone, has proposed such an alliance. Recently the idea has been much discussed as a result of Winston Churchill's speech at Fulton, Mo., advocating a special association between the United States and Britain. Churchill subsequently denied he was asking for a military alliance. He explained here last night what he had in mind would be more than that.

Byrnes described, without specifying any particular issues, present world difficulties as "serious" but said they could be solved "if all of us approach those difficulties in a spirit of conciliation and good will."

"After every great war there comes a period of anti-climax and disillusionment," the secretary declared.

"Those who fight together expect, when the fighting is over, too much from one another and are inclined to give too little to one another * * *."

LEAGUE OF SOVEREIGN STATES IS ADVOCATED

WINTER PARK, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Reconvention of the United Nations in general conference for the purpose of making sweeping changes in UNO's structure was proposed tonight by a group of prominent Americans who urged creation of a world federal government "capable of averting the catastrophe of another war in the atomic era."

Declaring UNO should convene to amend its charter, a Rollins College conference of scientists, statesmen, churchmen, business men, educators, writers and a labor leader proposed a seven-point amendment program with this as the primary objective:

"That the United Nations be transformed from a league of sovereign states into a government deriving its specific powers from the peoples of the world."

The document, to be sent to all members of UNO's general assembly, to President Truman, members of the cabinet and Congress and to the gov-

CARDINAL GLENNON IS LAID TO REST

ST. LOUIS, March 16.—(AP)—The body of John Cardinal Glennon, who at the age of 83 lived less than three weeks as a cardinal, was laid to rest today in the great Catholic cathedral that stands as a monument to his 42 years as archbishop of St. Louis.

He died seven days ago in Dublin, where he paused for a sentimental reunion in his homeland on the way back from Rome.

The pontifical mass of requiem was celebrated by the apostolic delegate in Washington, Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, and in the hush of the huge byzantine interior the eulogy was given by a man consecreated by Archbishop Glennon in 1918—Bishop Christopher E. Byrne of Galveston, Tex.

Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, Edward Cardinal Mooney of Detroit and Samuel Cardinal Stritch of Chicago occupied thrones in the sanctuary. The other American cardinal, Dennis Dougherty of Philadelphia, dean of the United States Catholic hierarchy, would not be present.

In a mass demonstration of spiritual devotion long lines had passed in slow, solemn movement through the cathedral from the time the body was flown back here last Thursday. All standing room was taken today, and many persons heard the ritual from loudspeakers outside the building.

Cardinal Glennon chose his own final resting place long ago—a crypt in the chapel of All Souls in the domed cathedral. The casket was placed on an immovable slab in the middle of the chapel.

YOUTH NIGHT IS WELL ATTENDED

Evangelist Bassett Preaches To Large Audience Friday

"The Bible is not merely a paper book printed in black ink, but it is a portrait of the face of a Man who was crucified," declared Evangelistic Carl Bassett, Friday night at the First Baptist Church in what is said to have been his ablest sermon on "The Face of Jesus." It was "Youth Night" and a large number heard the stirring message. The visiting minister will speak three times today: Morning, on "The Broken Circle"; evening (7:30) on "The Old Rugged Cross," and 1:30 to 2:00 p.m. over KMLB on the "Baptist Crusade Program." Services continue through next week. Great interest is being shown in the beautiful chalk pictures he draws. Using the Ten Commandments as the basis of his remarks Friday night.

Evangelist Bassett said in part: "If I asked you men to stand up for the Stars and Stripes, you would all stand. If I asked you to stand up for Jesus, some of you would remain seated. But if it were not for Jesus Christ, America would not be worth standing up for. Its hard to respect anyone living in America, enjoying all the benefits of Christianity, and turning his back on Jesus the author of it all.

"Two thousand years ago men struck the face of Jesus. They would close the mouth that condemned their sins. They battered the bleeding face until women wept as they looked at Jesus. Tonight some of you are smiting Jesus in the face by your sins. Everytime you disobey a command that came from the mouth of Jesus, it is like slapping Him in the face.

"Some of you have a Sunday morning Christ, a social-service Christ, a sentimental Christ who smiles upon you when you dance and play cards, but you do not have the Christ of the Bible who demands obedience. You have a cheap little imitation of Christ you invented.

"Profanity is prayer with the devil's trademark on it. Whenever you swear, you are satan's mouthpiece. When a man obeys God, God takes all the swear out of him, and until you do obey God, you are lost.

"The devil went fishing. He put a whiskey-flash on his hook and caught a drunkard. He put a deck of cards on his hook and caught a gambler. He put a silk stocking on his hook and caught a libertine. He was having such good luck he thought he would throw in his hook without any bait on it and he caught the cusser.

"I do not believe in a blue Sunday, but I do believe in a red, white and blue Sunday. We need to preserve those institutions that have made America the greatest nation in the world, and one of them is the American Sabbath.

"Just as the sunset with its crimson glory makes even the putrid pool burn like gold, and drenches with brilliance the vilest object held up against its beams, so tonight if a sinner in this audience will kneel at the foot of the cross, the crimson blood of Jesus will drench and penetrate and cleanse you from all sin."

SALVATION ARMY TO HAVE DRIVE

Will Seek $50,000 For Erection Of Its Own Home

The Salvation Army of Monroe plans to conduct a drive starting April 8 to raise $50,000 for a new and adequate citadel here to house its expanding work in the community. The campaign will be directed by Otto Passman, who is enthusiastic over the outlook for securing the new home which it is planned will be erected in the 500 block of Harrison street where the army already owns a lot but which will be enlarged by the addition of an adjacent lot, if present plans are carried out. This will give a frontage of 100 feet.

The Salvation Army has been in existence here for approximately 15 years and has done an outstanding job. At Christmas time, the Good Fellows Fund is administered through this source and lends aid and cheer to many who would otherwise have no cheerful holiday season. The Red Shield Club, growing by leaps and bounds, serves to keep boys off the street and to direct their energies in channels that will serve to build character.

Through the year the Army works in unassuming manner but ever for the building of a better, more Christian citizenship.

Major James Magown is the present director here having succeeded Jack Hesketh who went to Chicago but who will soon return as director of the Monroe Recreation department. The major and his staff are carrying on the work of predecessors in a substantial manner.

Through the two World Wars, in which this country has been a participant, the Salvation Army has loomed as a real friend of the men far from home on battle fronts. Sick were cared for and well men were stimulated by their contacts with the Army.

Mr. Passman states that 17 billion doughnuts were distributed to soldiers and 955 million meals given to men and women in armed service as a part of the service rendered.

Here at home the Army also has lived up to its obligations and much more and Mr. Passman, and others well informed with services rendered, believes that the Army well deserves an adequate home of its own. Now it is housed insufficiently on the second floor of a store building on South Grand Street. There is little space to provide for the needs of the Army and after upwards of 15 years as a service—affording organization of the Twin Cities, Mr. Passman declares that it is high time that a home of its own be erected.

Major Colleges To Be Represented At Student Conference

RUSTON, La., March 16.—(Special)—About 100 representatives from all the major colleges of Louisiana are expected to attend the Methodist Student Conference to be held at Louisiana Tech, starting at 8 o'clock Friday night and continuing until noon Sunday.

Delegates are registering with Miss Fay Barr, Methodist student secretary at Tech, who is arranging details of the meeting.

Owing to crowded housing conditions, some of the delegates may be asked to share rooms in the dormitories with Tech students during the two nights they are visitors here, Miss Barr said.

Dr. Edward T. Ramsdell, professor of theology and philosophy of religion at Vanderbilt University, will deliver a series of addresses at the conference.

Other speakers will be Dr. Harvey C. Brown, of the National Board of Education, Nashville, Tenn., and Rayburn Porter, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church, Shreveport.

A. C. (Cheezy) Voran, Shreveport, is scheduled to lead the conference singing. Voran is director of the Centenary choir and director of Centenary's College Kapers, musical variety entertainers.

BODY OF TULLY IS TAKEN FROM LAKE

The body of O. E. Tully, of Shreveport, was recovered from Caddo Lake late Friday afternoon. He had been missing on a fishing trip with Price Fannin, of Waskom, Tex., since Sunday morning. The L. B. Faulk American Legion Post's rescue truck had been summoned there and local firemen spent a day and night in the fruitless quest for the bodies.

Tully's body was found floating on the lake's surface not far from the place where dragging had been in progress for several days. Two Waskom men made the discovery.

The body of the Shreveport man was taken to an undertaking establishment in Shreveport. Meantime efforts are being continued to recover the body of his missing companion.

A verdict of accidental drowning of Tully was returned officially in the death

KEEP INSURANCE GI'S ARE URGED

This Valuable Asset Protects Veteran, Asserts Darwin

Joe Darwin, director of the Department of Veterans' Affairs reported today, that a large per cent of veterans who have returned are letting their insurance lapse.

"This is a valuable asset that provides protection for the veteran and his family, at a reasonable cost. If allowed to lapse, trouble in reinstating may occur. The veteran will not be able to buy similar protection for the same cost." Director Darwin continued.

To keep insurance in force, two things must be done:

First, the premiums must be paid direct to the Treasurer of the United States and mailed to the Collections Subdivision, Veterans' Administration, Washington 25, D. C., on the first of each month, or the veteran may pay quarterly, semi-annually or annually, by arranging to do this.

Reduction in the amount is in multiples of $500 if the veteran desires, or the premiums may be deducted from the retirement pay, compensation or pension received by the veteran.

Second, policies are for either five or eight year term periods and must be converted before this term is up. Conversion may be to ordinary life, 20 years payment life, or 30 payment life. The converted policy will cost more, but will have a cash value after the first policy year.

Spy Story

A spy story even more startling than the recent and still vague account of Russian activities in Canada is that contained in a series of NEA Service dispatches from Stockholm printed in the World, revealing the German espionage system there during the war.

The Nazis' spying is water over the dam, to be sure. And it didn't win the war for them, true enough, largely because the Allies had a spy system, too. But the fact remains that the Nazis had a vast collection of secret knowledge which prolonged the war and cost thousands of lives.

Conversely, our lack of secret knowledge also cost lives. How different might the story of Pearl Harbor have been if we had had an efficient and well-established espionage system in Japan?

We had no such system, however, because peace-time spying has always seemed to Americans an exotic and reprehensible business. It was all right as material for cloak-and-dagger melodrama. And we would even admit, with a pained look, that perhaps some foreign countries indulged in this sneaking occupation. But Americans, never. We were too decent, sporting, and candid.

That is substantially what the ordinary citizen seemed to think. And apparently the ordinary citizen's elected servants in Washington thought likewise. At any rate, we never have had even a second-rate intelligence service functioning abroad except in time of war.

The rest of the world's great nations—and most of its small ones—did, of course. And, while we Americans may have prided ourselves on our moral superiority to such goings-on, we must have looked pretty foolish to other countries. We actually were, and we should have had to admit it, and more, if we had known the shocking truth of just how much friendly and unfriendly governments alike knew about our secret business.

Americans don't gag at the knowledge that football games are scouted. Investors seldom turn down a good business or stock tip, even though such things can be in the nature of spying. But toward the infinitely more important matter of knowing what other nations are doing, can do, and mean to do, we have maintained a sort of Boy Scout attitude which may have been high-minded, but which was unrealistic and dangerous.

The Nazi spy revelations from Sweden are worth reading. They reveal an intricate, far-flung, ingenious, and efficient organization which was probably not peculiar to the German government under Hitler. To its members, espionage was a full-time job, and a big one.

It may be hoped, now that we have set up a peace-time intelligence or espionage service in this country, that it, too, will be a full-time activity. Its job of collecting, correlating, and interpreting information will probably disappoint the devotees of the spectacular and glamorous. But the result will give us some invaluable national insurance, if the effort is given the importance it deserves.

MOST VALUABLE POSSESSION

It is almost two years since there has been a bank failure in the United States. The last failure was in May, 1944. Not since 1870 has so long a period elapsed without a bank going under. And there is no reason to anticipate that there will be any failures.

All the banks are bulging with deposits, more than 50 per cent of which have been invested in safe government bonds. In fact, there has been some criticism of banks because they can make money on government bonds. They do not find it necessary to make commercial loans with an element of risk. The bane of banks in the past has been commercial paper that was not readily realizable in time of economic stress.

It is probable, of course, that the banks later on will face the necessity of resuming risk loans on a large scale to keep the economic machinery of the country functioning.

Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, which covers 92 per cent of the nation's depositories, announces that deposits in the nation's banks total $154,000,000,000, up $19,000,000,000 from a year ago. This is astounding when it is revealed that after World War I total money on deposit in the United States was less than $25,000,000,000.

There are more than six dollars on deposit now for every dollar then. There are nearly eleven dollars of national debt now for every dollar of national debt then. Despite the inflationary implications of huge money supply in time of scarcity, it is possible that this hoard—equivalent to more than half the national debt—is the country's most valuable possession, one that insures the integrity of the United States.

GOODBYE TO STARS

There are several hundred high-ranking officers in the United States army who will probably agree that T. S. Eliot had his dates wrong when he wrote several years ago that "April is the cruelest month." As far as they are concerned, the poet should have given this distinction to February or March. During these two months the War Department has been taking stars off the shoulders of generals as rapidly as it pinned them on during the war.

This mass demotion of several hundred brigadier generals and major generals was destined to happen sooner or later as the war-time forces were demobilized. But it is unlikely that this makes the process less painful to the generals who find themselves sliding down the banisters of rank. It must be a sad thing to suddenly find oneself a mere colonel after a few years enjoyment of the prestige of a general's rank. And for many this is not necessarily the end of the slide for their rank as colonels is temporary and subject to downward revision later.

But the ex-generals have plenty of company in their misery, if that is any consolation. In the Pentagon, in particular, stars have been falling as thickly as meteors on a summer's night. Who was it that said "War is hell"? Peace has its horrors, too—at least in the Pentagon.

Anne Baxter is denying published reports of her coming marriage to John Hodiak—says "her career's the thing" . . . Since her click in "Whistle Stop," Ava Gardner is feuding with MGM; she is demanding bigger roles . . . Barry Fitzgerald has purchased a 2,500 acre vineyard (Preparing for a bit 'of lost week ends?)

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of a Slim Week: Universal's "Tangier" (Maria Montez-Sabu-Robert Paige). In which Maria, wearing more than usual, still gets her man . . . SATISFACTORY: Columbia's "The Girl of the Limberlost." Sweetness and psychology give this re-make of a favorite old story freshness . . . PRC's "Murder is My Business" (Lyle Talbot-Cheryl Walker-Hugh Beaumont). Michael (Beaumont) Shayne, detective, solves an involved crime with more words than action . . . DISAPPOINTING: Republic's "Days of Buffalo Bill" (Sunset Carson-Peggy Stewart). Enough to make Cody turn over in his grave . . . Universal's "House of Horrors" (Bill Goodwyn-Virginia Grey). Introducing "The Creeper," who won't scare even the kiddies . . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Robert Paige in "Tangier." Tops his none-too-strong competition.

Mickey Rooney is a civilian again and, to prove he holds no grudges, has employed Hugh Benson, his former top sergeant. That is a fine idea and I hope Mickey keeps the top-kick on his pay roll. Two years of army discipline have probably taught Rooney a lot, but it won't hurt to have Sergeant Benson around to remind Mickey that he is just one guy in the biggest outfit of them all—the United States of America.

In addition to filing a divorce suit, Gail Patrick is asking the court to protect her from her husband, former Navy Lieutenant Arnold Dean White. Miss Patrick states that her husband is determined to win her back at any cost and, as part of his campaign, has been telephoning her all hours of the night. She also alleges that the ex-lieutenant paid an unwelcome visit at 1:30 a. m., which Patrick found most annoying. Well, you can't blame a guy for trying, and if I were Gail I would think twice before turning him down. He is about the first husband in Hollywood history who loved his wife enough to lose sleep over her.

Lois Andrews Jessel Street, now 21, has filed suit for divorce from David Street, after a marriage that lasted four months. Lois is charging cruelty and in her case we must believe that the world was lost for love. When she married Street, Miss Andrews sacrificed alimony to the tune of $1,500 a month, which she had been receiving from George Jessel, her first husband. It looks as though Jessel is the only winner in this marital tangle. I hope he remembers to give Street a vote of thanks.

Harold Lloyd chose "Harold Diddlebock" for the name of the leading character in his forthcoming picture, never thinking there could be a real person by that name. But the other day, a war vet showed up at Lloyd's studio, stating his name is Harold Diddlebock, and "what was Lloyd going to do about it?" I know what I would have done. I'd have said, "Come in, son. Let's see what we can do about changing your name."

Now Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is going to write a book about her years in the White House. I don't know what she plans to call her book, but I have a suggestion. Taking into consideration the storm of comment aroused by her every move, and the criticism heaped on her stately head, a fitting title would be, "My Daze."

New York Day By Day
By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: Walking across town in foul weather, because no taxi was available, I was getting my feet wet and holding my hat in my hand to save it. Miracle? A cab stopped right in front of me, at the entrance to the Grand Central building.

I rushed to get in my claim to the cab first. It was about to discharge passengers. I could see dimly, through the dirty windows, three men.

I grasped the handle of the door and opened it. This is a gesture of courtesy, but also a means of claiming the cab against all comers.

A tall man of severe mien was on the sidewalk, instantly, and stood very close to me, facing. His back was in such position that the other two occupants must pass behind him as they left the cab. He had his right hand in his overcoat pocket, as did I.

Slowly, the other men emerged, carrying large canvas bags, which obviously were heavy.

The tall man continued to stand over me and glower at me until I entered the cab and gave the order "Waldorf." Then he turned and followed the other men into the building.

Said the cabbie to me, "You just missed getting it that time, boy! What do you think them guys had in the bags? Money! The guy that faced you was a detective, and he had his hand on a gun. You had your right hand in your pocket, and he wasn't going to take no chances. If you'd made a move, bang."

Really, do I look that tough on a bad day?

Mokke Jiminez, coastguardsman, tells me that a landlubber, shallow-water lieutenant-commander was officer of the deck one evening, on the transport upon which Mokke was serving.

At dusk, just before blackout, it was customary to blow the tubes.

This is a process of forcing steam through the tubes at high pressure, to eliminate carbon that might send tell-tale sparks out of the funnels.

Came a call from below, "Permission to blow tubes, Sir?"

"Very well," answered the officer of the deck.

Turning to the bugler, he gave the command, "Blow tubes!"

Miss Leslie Payne, of Indianapolis, niece of James Whitcomb Riley, agrees with me that the humor of Bill Nye, which once took this country by storm, is mostly dated and unfunny today. But she furnishes this Nye paragraph as a bit of uptodate satire:

"The play Julius Caesar is full of duplicity, assassinations, treachery, erroneous loyalty, suicide, hypocrisy, and all intrigue, jealousy, cowardice, and deviltry that characterized the politics of 50 years B. C., but which now, thanks to the enlightenment and refinement twenty centuries have brought, are known no more."

I wish to report that our Nancy, 18 months old, has learned to say "God bless you." She is so fond of the expression that she goes about her play saying, "God bless Mommie. God bless Daddy." Her parents are in Iowa, but she doesn't forget them. She meets Annie, the Polish woman who cleans the house, with "God bless Annie."

God bless her!

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture: I Samuel, Chapters 1-7, especially I Samuel 7:1-8, 13-15.
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

When, and how, does a people become a nation? History has various answers. Sometimes the process is slow, as in the building of our American life out of original colonies, with much common heritage, but widely separated geographically and in sentiment. Sometimes the process is rapid, but not altogether effectual, as in the national developments following World War I.

In the history of Israel the process was slow in beginning, but swift and strong in its final stage because strong leaders came on the scene. In the progress from Egyptian bondage through the wilderness to the Promised Land, the consciousness of the people was tribal, racial and religious, rather than national, and when the religious life was at a low ebb, as it was repeatedly in the lapses of the people into idolatry, the lines of distinction between the Israelites and their idolatrous neighbors were weakened. In the period of the judges leaders like Joshua and Deborah, the woman judge, exercised great influence, but after them came evil days.

Eli, the high priest, seems to have been a man of personal integrity and loyalty to the people, for the news of military disaster to Israel so overcame him that he fell from the balcony where he was sitting and was killed. But the record concerning Eli is that "his sons made themselves vile, and he restrained them not." The course of these sons, accepting bribes and misconducting themselves with women worshipers who came to the temple, shows to what a corrupt state the people had fallen.

But there came a new leader, who with religious fervor and integrity combined high qualities of political leadership. It was under this new leader, Samuel, that the people attained such strong national consciousness that they rejected Samuel himself, as the religious head, demanding a military leader and king, thus paving the way for that disaster which was shortly to come upon them.

The story of Samuel, both in its personal aspects and in its political implications, is of great interest. We see him first as the little boy in the temple, brought there by his mother, Hannah, and devoted to the service of the high priest, Eli. He was the child of love and prayer. His father, Elkanah, is one of the truly noble figures in the Old Testament, a man of delicate feeling who truly loved his wife, despite her bareness, and Samuel, in the beautiful account of his birth, was the child of his mother's prayers.

Eli, too, was more successful with his little helper than he was with his own sons; and when Samuel heard a voice calling him, Eli did not rebuke him, or make fun of him, but recognized that it was a divine call, and told him when the call came again to say: "Speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth."

From that hour Samuel became conscious of a great mission. He cleansed the temple of its abuses, restored and strengthened the religious life of the people, but became also their political and military leader. He took hold with a firm hand, and if we picture him as the mild little child serving in the temple, we must put beside that picture the severe judge hewing in pieces before the altar the enemy king, Agar, in retribution for his acts of atrocity.

OUR CHILDREN

FEARS

We were born with instinctiveness fears, perhaps they are a heritage from the past when man had to guard his life at every step, perhaps they are instincts set in us to preserve us from harm by an all beneficient providence. At any rate we have them. Some of them lie asleep for years, some come to the surface early as when children are afraid in the dark of fur, of loud noises. Such fears if carefully managed soon drop to the lower levels of our being and stay there until they are really needed. We do need protective fears and we have them.

The unwholesome sort we often set in ourselves, and oftener still have them set in us by other people. Parents use fear to govern their children, teachers to control their charges, mean people to intimidate the weaker and more helpless folk among them to their own advantage. That kind of fear is bad. It is poisonous because such fear leads to anger and anger to hate and then there is death threatening the spirit.

The senseless thing about the use of fear to dominate others is the fact that fear does not work. It tends to the opposite result of what was intended. The parents wants to teach the child that certain things are not to be done and if they are done, certain dreadful things will surely happen. Severe punishments that cause children to fear their parents do not tend to teach the child obedience. They teach him to fear, therefore to hide conduct and thought and plan to hide the real self, to run away. The newspapers carry stories of such fear every now and again. A failing child, a child who has done what he was forbidden to do and in doing so met with an accident, is likely to become hysterical and in his frenzy do something that can never be undone.

Children in fear of their teachers, teachers in fear of superintendents, superintendents in fear of authority, authority in fear of making a mistake and losing prestige, anybody in fear of anything cannot be himself nor do his best. Fear sickens the soul and nobody who is soul sick can be whole in body and mind.

Love casts out fear. Parents can create love between theselves and their children. Teachers can inspire love in their pupils. That is easy. All children crave love and respond to it instantly. So do grown people. Have faith in the gentle way, see behind the screens that doubt and fear force children, and grown people, to put between them and trouble and life will be so much easier, so much happier for everybody.

The subject "Fear" is treated in Dr. Patris leaflet P-1 which tells how to deal with the fears of small children.

WASHINGTON, March 16—The official whisper sent to the Senate behind the Hoover appointment to world famine relief played down the job as a mere survey. Inquiring newsmen were told the Republican ex-president and skilled world foodhandler was only to find out how much food was needed and how much was available—like job of a statistician or economist.

Immediately, however, the reigning world food relefer, Herbert Lehman, of UNRRA, was announced to be ill—whether from the news of the Hoover appointment or not. He offered his resignation to the world council of UNRRA opening Friday at Atlantic City.

These dovetailing circumstances lent credence to a natural interpretation that a complete overhaul of our relief efforts is at hand. Mr. Truman had earlier blackened the wheat content of bread, and his action took such swift effect that my baker this week began complaining that his flour had become grossly inferior, and that Mr. Truman did not know the severe effects of such an order. The quality of the loaf he gave me of this basic poor man's food certainly furnished evidence of a colossal mistake—or many of them—somewhere.

I thought Messrs. Truman and Hoover, in later announcements, displayed a somewhat different approach to the matter. Mr. Truman asked the people to cut the use of wheat by 40 per cent and fats by 20 per cent, and Mr. Hoover spoke of setting up "a circuit of helpfulness around the world." Both generally indicated by their words that they would appeal for voluntary cooperation by the people in a truly Democratic way. This was in clear contrast to totalitarian methods of requiring conformance by economic tricks and the force-methods so familiar during the war, both of which we borrowed to a considerable degree from the Nazi and Fascist ways. Officially it was said, for instance, we need not have rationing.

Personally I will say I will be able to avoid bread entirely, if the flour is to be corrupted to the extent of the last loaf I got. But as I say, bread is the poor man's basic food, the staff of life, and what I would like to see is the maintenance of its full quality for our people, and the feeding of famine victims to whatever extent is necessary.

I do not believe our food should have been—or should be used for political purposes, for buying support abroad, unless we have surpluses. Our contribution should be limited to what is required to relieve actual human suffering. Now as to statistics on this subject, I have found from experience that a politically minded person can get nearly any kind he wants, and a careful sincere man must guard himself to the utmost against being misled into false assumptions by social reforming statisticians. And, frankly, I do not entirely trust all the statisticians Mr. Truman inherited.

A reasonable and a Democratic solution, with public support, seems possible to achieve, and a man of Mr. Hoover's experience should have a chance to work it out with the new Truman famine emergency committee.

Certainly nearly anything could be expected to be an improvement on the Lehman administration of UNRRA. Those senators and representatives who have gone abroad the past year or more have returned with astonishing tales of its inefficiency. Mr. Truman tried to help some by giving the army much of the job, and Congress was ready to cut off UNRRA appropriations. However, the UNRRA planners marshalled their forces and recently got their appropriations in substance, after a fight. But the completeness of UNRRA's failure is fully exposed by the very fact that Mr. Hoover had to be sought out by the president and a new committee created to undertake relief. This is the distance we have progressed toward reality from the initial program of the relief and rehibilitation theories embodied in UNRAA! At the beginning it painted visions of its ability to make the world fat and strong by curing its deficient diets with our surplus foods. Now we are down to relieving famine—if we can—and taking black bread ourselves.

The world planners have encountered the facts of life in food as they did in foreign policy.

FARMER INVENTORS INVITED TO DISPLAY

BATON ROUGE, La., March 16.—(AP)—Amateur inventors down on the farm are invited by the State University Agricultural Extension Service to exhibit their inventions at a series of farm and home labor saving shows to be held over the state in the next few weeks, H. C. Sanders, extension service director, announced today.

C. E. Kemmerly Jr., supervisor of the shows, believes they may bring to light new devices of value to farmers over the state.

"The farmer," says Kimmerly, "is an ingenious cuss—has to be to make a living farming. It's a rare farmer who doesn't have his own special method or gadget for doing some job or the other an easier way. As a matter of fact, about 90 percent of all new farm machinery that comes on the market is developed by some farmer looking for a better way to get the job done."

He urged farmer-inventors with such home-made devices to get in touch with the agricultural agent's office at their parish seat.

Shows already scheduled include one March 19-20 at John McNeese Junior College at Lake Charles, March 30-31 at Thibodaux and April 19-20 at Alexandria.

Always cook poultry at moderate heat so the meat will be juicy, tender and evenly done to the bone.

MARINE CORPS LEAGUE TO MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

Arrangements were complete for the meeting here Tuesday night of the Monroe detachment of the Marine Corps league. A business session, scheduled for 7:30 o'clock at the Ouachita Parish courthouse, will be followed by a barbecue at Bernstein park.

The initial step toward permanent organization of the detachment, which has been operating provisionally since February 5, will be taken at the business session. Dues will be received and charter application will be signed.

The membership and entertainment committees named at the last meeting of the detachment are jointly in charge of arrangements for Tuesday night's gathering. The respective chairmen of the two groups are R. L. Fuller and C. C. Nash, both of Monroe.

Barbecued pork and mutton and plenty of beer were promised by the entertainment committee and the membership committee was striving to notify all former Marines throughout northeast Louisiana of the meeting.

Membership in the detachment is open to former Navy medical corpsmen who served under Marine jurisdiction as well as to ex-Leathernecks. Service in the Corps or with the Corps is the only prerequisite of membership.

Be sure to wear sensible shoes with firm arches when working around the house, to prevent falls and lessens plague.

OPERA REPLETE AND COLORFUL

'H. M. S. Pinafore' Gives Promise Of Making Big Hit Here

"H. M. S. Pinafore," declared one of the most colorful of the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, will be presented by a cast comprising Northeast Junior College students in Brown Hall auditorium March 19, at 8 p. m. The performance is being directed by Miss Gertrude Sandrock, N. J. C. voice instructor. Working with "H. M. S. Pinafore" is a familiar job for her as she has participated in the operetta several times.

Recent rehearsals of the musical feature give an optimistic note. Miss Sandrock says that she is impressed with the interest shown by students and the improvement made by soloists and chorus groups.

Advance ticket sales indicate a good audience for the operetta which will be the first production of its kind to be given on the campus in several years.

Leading members of the cast include: James M. McBeth as the Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B.; Wray Bowie as Captain Corcoran; Frank Parker as Ralph Rackstraw; Homer Cook as the villain, Deadeye Dick; Roy Wilson as Boatswain Bill Bobstay; Charles Canfield as Bob Beckett; Jane Shea in the role of Josephine; Martha Carroll as Hebe, and Jennie Jo Blanchard as Mrs. Cripps, better known as Little Buttercup.

The chorus comprises the following: Elizabeth Adkins, Leita Baker, Clara Boughton, Iris Jean Cheatham, Bernice Coleman, Mildred Denning, Juanita Ferguson, Barbara Finlay, Ernestine Fisher, Evelyn Garland, Mattie Gilmore, Ruth Hamilton, Mary Jo Hardwick, Gloria Hare, Ellen Haynes, Melbarene Lee, Edna Mae Owens, Mary Elizabeth Peters, Charlotte Ann Pettit, Dorothy Shipp, Matilda Simmons, Bettye Jane Thompson, Evelyn Wolf, Kathryn Worley, Lillian Aplin, Dorothy Dillon, Robert McWhorter, and Harvey Nelson, instructor in brasses and reeds.

Miss Sandrock will serve as piano accompanist for the entire program. Juanita Ferguson selected scenery for stage, and Charlotte Ann Pettit is in charge of ticket sales.

The building of the set representing the deck of a ship is being done by M. V. Irby, superintendent of buildings and grounds at the college.

IN MOVIELAND

HOLLYWOOD, March 16.—(AP)—Recently Peter Lawford was mobbed by adolescent girls when he attended a preview of one of his pictures at the Westwood village theater. It was a frightening, but pleasing event for the young actor, because he was once an usher at the same theater.

That may seem like ages ago to Pete, but actually it was only three or four years back. I knew him in those days and it has been interesting to watch fame creep up on him.

In those early war years Lawford was a slight, good-looking young actor with a slight wisp of an accent that demoted his English parentage. He had done bits around the studios but never clicked in the big time. I don't know whether he was broke or just didn't carry money, but he was usually borrowing to pay for odds and ends. He was a hep character and could keep up with the repartee at Sorrento, the favored beach hangout.

Peter finally landed a contract at M-G-M and played a bit in a film called "Pilot No. Five," which also featured a young actor named Gene Kelly. He advanced upward, helped by a good performance as Irene Dunne's son in "White Cliffs of Dover." "Son of Lassie" established him and the bobby-soxers took him to their hearts. His position will be consolidated with "Two Sisters From Boston" and "My Brother Who Talked with Horses."

To say that Pete hasn't changed would be pure romanticism. It is virtually impossible for anyone to become a celebrity and remain normal, especially in Hollywood where fame requires a vast amount of intrigue. But Pete has done a fair job of it. And he still hangs out at Sorrento whenever the weather is fair and he isn't working.

The other night Pete, our Marine friend Art Woodcock and I were sitting in Romanoff's and recalling the old days. It was a far cry from the hamburger joints where we used to eat. We remembered the last weekend when we drove to Laguna in Art's battered model A Ford. And how we got thrown out of a night club that night because Pete looked too young. And how the promising week-end at the beach was spoiled by a driving California rainstorm.

I asked Pete if he ever longed for the old days.

"Gee, I don't know," he said. "Sometimes I think we were happier then when we didn't have anything to worry about. I guess I'm just a beach bum at heart."

VIENNA, March 16.—Winston Churchill's Missouri speech and the vitriolic reaction from Moscow continue to reverberate sharply in central Europe and so it perhaps wasn't surprising—though unexpected—that the president of Austria, Dr. Karl Renner, should refer voluntarily to the affair during an interview which he accorded me at the chancellery.

"We (Austria) have one main sorrow just now aroused by the dispute between Churchill and Stalin," said Dr. Renner. "The unity of the world is our life and the end of unity would be the end of Austria."

Later I reverted to this subject and asked the president whether he was hopeful for peace or whether he agreed with the pessimists who are saying there must be another war.

"I hope there will be agreement between the western Allies and Russia," he replied. "I hope that in the agreement Austria will not be forgotten."

I insisted laughingly "do you agree with the pessimists?" Renner smiled broadly—in the way which is one of the great assets of his friendly personality.

"I find it difficult to be pessimistic" he said, and then added earnestly: "I should prefer not to live to see another war come."

"And what of Austria's future?" I asked.

"What are your plans?" said Dr. Renner. "The republic never was involved in war but we want a treaty to clear up our legal position. We are liberated but are in a worse position than the conquered nations.

"We have a parliament and government which can't govern at all because there are four military governments. Every act of our government needs the permission of the four powers and this is generally too late or not at all."

"In one word the big task of the immediate future is to fix the international and internal status of Austria. This is only possible by treaty. It can't be done by dictation. It concerns our necessities of life and we must be consulted about these necessities. All the agricultural and industrial means of existence are at the disposal of the Allies. The powers make different use of these means. Nearly all the lands in lower Austria are claimed by the occupying Red army. They are used by the Russians and are not available to Austrians. Austria hasn't enough food; this position is intolerable.

"Big industries are run by the Allies, not for their own interest but in such manner that we can't formulate a general reconstruction plan. We hope a treaty will give us back the whole power over industry, agriculture, commerce and transportation. We hope for a claim in a peace conference—not in the accepted sense of the term but like a peace conference—and we would submit the treaty to parliament.

"When the first republic was formed in 1919 all the states around us were hostile. Austria couldn't export. Now the situation is different. The whole world wants goods and we have something to produce and to give. We hope we can live—if the peace of UNO is really to function. There is a will to live but a will alone doesn't make you live.

"We hope for a peaceful Europe and free commerce throughout all countries. As soon as our international status is fixed we want to be a member of the UNO and take up friendly relations with all nations.

"We are absolutely for peace. You can rely on that. There is no place in all Europe so much endangered as Austria.

"We are not against foreign troops staying in Austria. We need them to protect our frontiers but 30,000 men would suffice and the command should be in one hand, not in four. As to Naziism and Fascism we shall be finished with them soon. There is no danger of their survival."

I asked the president how far his government intended to go with nationalization.

"The Austrian government isn't for radical experiment," he replied. "What we want to realize isn't abstract principles but a sufficient meal table for all our population. We don't hope for chicken in our pot but a piece of bread and butter and sometimes a bit of meat.

"If we grow good chickens," he added with another big grin, "we will export them.

"The Potsdam agreement says German assets belong to the Allies, if this sentence is carried out then Austria is a beggar. (Dr. Renner referred to the fact that when Hitler annexed Austria he took over most available assets.) If the German acts of annexation are nullified then these things belong to us.

"Some standard industries must be nationalized as they will need government help anyway. But nationalization is no dogma for us. We hope foreign capital will come into the country and will help fortify our international position. We won't take this capital."

RUSSIAN SOLDIERS UNAWARE OF SPEECH

VIENNA, March 16.—(AP)—A Stars and Stripes reporter, Arthur Noyes, today sought to find out what the average Russian soldier thought about Winston Churchill's Missouri speech. Here are some of the results he reported:

Soldier No. 1 shook hands with himself vigorously, repeating: "Roosevelt, Churchill, all good."

Soldier No. 2 said simply that the Red Army was the most powerful army in the world.

Soldier No. 3 assured Noyes "politics is for politicians."

Soldier No. 4 grinned and said Russia was everybody's friend. Churchill? The soldier thought he was an American, Truman? The soldier never heard of him.

Noyes talked to 33 soldiers. He said no one ever heard that Churchill had made a speech in Missouri.

THE NATION TODAY
By James Marlow

By Clarke Beach

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—The army's officer caste system with its special privileges and distinctions griped many a GI during the war. The result has been a lively post-war agitation for what advocates call democratization of the armed forces.

Is that possible in an efficient defense organization? This seems to be a question no one can answer positively today.

The only major test on the subject this century was Russia's experiment in the democratization of its army.

One of the first things Lenin and his fellow revolutionaries did after they got into power in 1917 was to abolish all the distinctions between officers and enlisted men which had existed in the czarist army.

Proclaiming they sought the "decisive eradication of every inequality in the army," they banned all ranks, titles, insignia, decorations, officers' organizations and signs of distinction.

"The army of the Russian republic," they decreed "is henceforth to be composed of free and equal citizens bearing the honorable title of 'soldier of the revolutionary army.'"

They also issued a decree providing that all officers be elected.

A new army system was thus born. There were no salutes, no orderlies for officers, no separate messes, clubs nor quarters for officers, no insignia except a small mark on the sleeve denoting a man's elective office. Instead of ranks, there were 13 "categories of service," such as "platoon commander," "assistant company commander," etc.

But throughout the 1920's and 1930's there was a consistent trend away from that experimental military concept and toward the professionalization of the personnel who were in command. By successive laws and regulations, the top drawer soldiers became more and more segregated from the rank and file.

A decree of September 22, 1935, reestablished individual ranks for officers, provided for the wearing of insignia, and instituted a system of regular promotions for officers.

After the first war with Finland, which badly jolted Red army prestige, many changes were made. Saluting was required again on May 8, 1940. On October 12 of that year a new "disciplinary code" was promulgated, tightening up discipline all along the line and generally revamping the military organization.

Soviet writers and military leaders of that period were widely proclaiming the virtues of strict military discipline. Soviet government officials never openly stated that the discipline of the Red army ever had been anything less than superb; but foreign observers have concluded that the new pointed emphasis on that subject indicated that when the army's discipline has been tested in war, the leaders had not been pleased with the results.

In January, 1943, a special decree restored shoulder straps on officers' uniforms, as an aid to authority. On July 24, 1943, a decree established an officer corps, along with three other categories: Generals, non-commissioned officers and privates.

Recently the Red army revived the institution of orderlies, or "batmen"—with much public explanation that the idea was not so much to provide servants for the officers as to give the orderlies a chance to receive training under an officer's direct tutelage.

There are now 12 ranks among Red army officers, from junior lieutenant to marshal. The officers have clubs separate from the enlisted men. There is about as much military custom and pomp as in any other army. Officers and enlisted men must stand at attention and exchange salutes when giving or receiving orders. Military personnel address one another by their rank. And when an officer visits an enlisted men's barracks or other gathering, all troops snap to attention.

Now-a-days, the Red army is pretty much GI, American style.

L. B. FAULK POST WILL MEET MONDAY

A large class will be initiated into the L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion, Monday at 8 p. m., stated J. Arthur Smith, Jr., commander. The post is desirous of having a record sized membership this month which markes the 27th aniversary of the founding of the American Legion.

Besides the induction ceremonies, there will be business matters discussed one of which concerns the holding of the barbecue in the month of April.

All members are urged to attend this meeting.

MRS. NICK MIRZA HURT IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Nick B. Mirza, 1213 Cole Ave., was injured about 1:55 o'clock yesterday afternoon when an automobile she was driving collided with a machine operated by M. C. Canterberry, 28, route 3, Monroe, according to Police Sergeant Jack Davis and Officer Russell L. Jordan who investigated the accident.

Mrs. Mirza, rushed to St. Francis Sanitarium in a Mulhearn ambulance, was in an undetermined condition last night although she was permitted to be removed to her home. She complained of pains in the back, neck and hip, it was said and received lacerations on the legs.

Police said Mrs. Mirza was traveling south on Sterlington road and Canterberry was going east on DeSiard when the two machines collided at the intersection of the two roads.

ENGINEER SAVES 2 LITTLE GIRLS

DES MOINES, March 16.—(AP)—Two little girls who went down to the tracks to watch the trains owned their lives today to the sharp vision of Engineer Harold Bateman of Rock Island, Ill.

Joyce Halligan, 8, and her sister, Judy Carol, 6, wandered out on the Rock Island railroad bridge over the Des Moines river late yesterday. They were about in the center when they heard a train whistle.

Joyce's leg became caught and her sister tried vainly to free her. Bateman, engineer of the passenger train, caught sight of the small struggling figures 200 feet ahead and stopped just in time.

Trainmen released the trapped girl.

SHERIFF MAKES SEVERAL ARRESTS

Game Law, Traffic Violation And Non-Support Charges Filed

Game laws, traffic infractions, disturbing the peace and non-support cases headed the list of charges on which arrests were made by members of the sheriff's department the past week, Sheriff Milton Coverdale said yesterday.

Trooper James Waters of the Louisiana state police swore out warrants against five persons before Judge W. M. Harper, charging them with operating motor vehicles on highways of the parish with improper lights, and the warrants were executed by sheriff's officers.

Those arrested on the improper lights charges were Bob Butler, Arkansas road, and Harold W. Chilton, West Monroe, both free under $25 bonds; and Jessie O. Anding, route 2, West Monroe, Tommie Miller, 102 Montgomery street, West Monroe, and a Negro, Herman Webster, West Monroe, all free under $50 bonds.

Charles Goad, Dixie-Overland highway, West Monroe, was free under $200 bond following his arrest on warrants charging him with disturbing the peace in the vicinity of the homes of Mrs. C. G. Avant and Mrs. Alton Green.

Assistant District Attorney Hillyer S. Parker swore out warrants before Judge Jesse Heard, West Monroe, charging that Goad came near the homes of Mrs. Avant and Mrs. Green in an "intoxicated condition, did use loud, offensive and insulting language in such a manner as would foreseeably disturb and alarm the persons in the house."

A. P. Howard, Sterlington Negro, was taken into custody on two charges of taking wild rabbits in the closed season and with taking wild rabbits with a gun capable of holding more than three shells. The Negro, free under bond, was arrested on the complaint of Conservation Agent A. B. Gibson.

Ernest Smith, Jonesboro road, was taken into custody on a charge of non-support of his wife, Fannie Mae Smith, and two minor children, ages two and three years. Smith, unable to post $250 bond, was being held in the Ouachita parish jail.

Nelson O'Neal, also charged with non-support, was free under $150 bond. O'Neal is accused of failure to support his wife, Iona, and a minor child four years old.

FIREMEN RESPOND TO ALARM ON FOOT

Monroe firemen stationed at Louisville avenue and North Sixth street answered a fire alarm yesterday afternoon when it rolling their apparatus out of No. 3 station and extinguished a fire at the home of T. M. Peterson, 717 North Sixth street.

The Peterson residence is immediately across the station, and firemen rushed over with a bucket of water to put out the minor blaze, about 2:15 p. m., it was reported. Firemen said carelessness with matches was to blame for the blaze.

A fire of a minor nature at the home of W. B. Bridges, 715 DeSiard street, was also extinguished yesterday afternoon with a garden hose being brought into play to put out the blaze.

A short in electrical wiring was blamed for a fire in an automobile owned by B. N. Free, Natchitoches road. Firemen put out the fire yesterday morning at 124 North Third street.

LA FOLLETTE MAY TURN REPUBLICAN

Last Independent Label Likely To Fade Out Of Senate

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—The last independent label may fade out of the Senate this week if Senator Robert M. La Follette, Jr., drops the mantle of the Progressive party to turn Republican.

Wisconsin Progressives meet Sunday to decide their future course. The betting odds are strong that the party that grew out of the Senior Robert M. La Follette's unsuccessful bid for the presidency as a Progressive will join hands with the Republicans for this year's campaign.

That will leave La Follette officially registered with the Senate as a Progressive until his term expires next January.

But friends say there is little doubt that he will enter the Republican senatorial primary, although most of the present Wisconsin G. O. P. leaders have made it pretty plain they don't want him back in the party. If he is denied the Republican nomination, friends don't think La Follette will run as an independent.

La Follette started his senate career as a Republican when he was elected in 1925 to succeed his late father. He was reelected on the G. O. P. ticket in 1928, but in 1934 and 1940 ran successfully on the Progressive ticket.

The latter year found in the Senate four independents, of whom La Follette is the last. Senator George Norris of Nebraska was defeated and subsequently died. Senator Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota, who bore the Farmer-Labor label, was killed in an airplane crash. His colleague, Senator Henrick Shipstead of Minnesota, switched to the Republican ticket on which he is seeking renomination this year.

A member of six Senate committees, La Follette will be in line to inherit the chairmanship of one of the major groups—in case of a Republican majority—if he can win renomination and reelection as a Republican.

He is the top minority member on the powerful finance and labor committees and second to Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas on foreign relations Committee rank, apparently will not challenge his right to an important chairmanship when and if the G. O. P. wins control of the Senate.

Some had felt that the Wisconsin senator's support of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt through four presidential elections should have disqualified him from advancing in rank along with regular Republicans.

During those years La Follette was found voting most often with New Deal Democrats on domestic issues. He opposed Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policies.

GIVES VERDICT OF ACCIDENTAL DEATH

BATON ROUGE, La., March 16.—(AP)—A verdict of accidental death was returned here this afternoon by a coroner's jury in the death early this morning of Willie Ray Hodges, 14, of Walker, who was struck by a truck on the highway near Walker yesterday morning.

Dr. Henry Johnston, East Baton Rouge parish coroner, said that death was caused by internal injuries. The driver of the truck is being held pending further investigation. The injury occured while young Hodges waited on the roadside for a school bus.

A pig 16 weeks old yields about 80 pounds of pork. Kept for another 10 weeks, it will provide up to 260 pounds.

PUBLIC FORUM

FIRE PROTECTION HIT

Monroe, La.
March 15, 1946

To the Editor:

As a citizen, and tax payer who lives on the south side of Monroe, I was very much interested, as well as surprised when it was reported to me that our firemen at stations on the south side of Monroe were deserting their stations one night a month to attend a union meeting up town, thereby leaving the entire southern portion of Monroe without fire protection during these meetings.

I decided to verify these reports to my own satisfaction, so on the firemen's union meeting night some friends and I went to the stations about 7:45 p. m. and found them all deserted, and the equipment all gone. We then went up town and found the trucks from these stations parked by the first Baptist Church on St. John street and there were no firemen around the trucks, which verified the reports that our firemen had deserted their stations of duty and were off somewhere attending their union meeting.

It is really a serious situation for the people on the south side of Monroe to be left without fire protection at any time, a situation that probably would invalidate all the insurance on every home and business in that part of town, when the firemen leave their stations of duty and take with them the fire fighting equipment.

If it were not necessary for the firemen to stay on the job all the time to help protect the citizens property from being destroyed by fire, and keep their insurance policies valid, then why not abolish all the stations that are deserted at times and save the tax payers the heavy expense of maintaining them?

If Mayor Benoit does not know about this situation—and I have reason to believe he does, he probably could obtain all the information on the subject by calling on the head of the firemen's union.

I feel that it is the mayor's sworn duty to immediately put a stop to our firemen deserting their post of duty for any reason whatsoever. I believe if we should have a fire while the firemen were off of duty the victim of the circumstance would hold the city administration responsible, not the firemen, for the damage.

CONSIDERS SELLING PROPERTY OF L. S. U.

BATON ROUGE, La., March 16.—(AP)—In executive session, the Finance Committee of Louisiana State University's Board of Supervisors this afternoon considered the proposed sale of LSU property east of Louisiana's state capitol here.

The sale of the University's former experiment station site also was authorized at an earlier closed meeting of the board and was first made public when bids were asked recently. Highest bid reported for the property by Dr. W. B. Hatcher, LSU president, is $236,000.

A number of protests against the sale have been lodged with the Finance Committee, including one by Wade O. Martin Jr., Louisiana Secretary of State, who pointed out that a number of public buildings, including a state archives building, recreational facilities and a municipal auditorium might be constructed on the land.

The committee will report its recommendation to the LSU Board at a meeting Monday, at which time a decision on the sale is expected.

ORGANIST GUILD TO NOTE ANNIVERSARY

BATON ROUGE, La., March 16.—(AP)—The Louisiana Chapter of the American Guild of Organists will observe the national organization's 50th anniversary Monday with a musical program at the First Methodist Church here, Mrs. Frank Collins, dean of Louisiana State University chapter, said today.

Guest artists will include A. E. Wilder Jr., Southeast Louisiana college, Frederick Jacksch, organist and choirmaster of St. John's Lutheran church, New Orleans; Mary Jeanne Wooley, LSU music student, and Frank Crawford Page of LSU's Music School.

At least 10 per cent of the country's main highway mileage needs rebuilding, the Public Works Administration estimates.

DELEGATES FROM 50 PAPERS MEET

Franklin Sun, Lions Club And Town Of Winnsboro Hosts

WINNSBORO, March 16.—(Special)—More than 50 Louisiana newspapers were represented here Saturday when The Franklin Sun, with cooperation of the Lions Club and the Town of Winnsboro, were hosts to a victory conference of the North Louisiana division of the Louisiana Press Association.

Major Bruce R. McCoy, manager of the central office at Baton Rouge, plus South Louisiana directors of the state-wide organization, several representatives of the L. S. U. school of journalism and a number of others participated in the day's program.

Nathan Bolton of Bastrop is president of the Louisiana Press Association; N. M. Bienvenu of St. Martinville, first vice-president of the state group and president of the down-state division, and Marion T. Lipp, Sun publisher, second vice-president for the state and North division president. The latter will preside at Saturday's discussion sessions which included conferences dealing with a wide range of newspaper problems and opportunities.

Insofar as social and entertainment features are concerned, plans for the day were limited to an informal noon-day luncheon at the Franklin Hotel, which also was attended by heads of a number of local organizations and several public officials, and an evening buffet dinner for the newspaper group at the Diamond-Hawthorne American Legion Community Center.

The luncheon-meeting was addressed by W. Davis Cotton of Rayville, recently returned to the practice of law after about four years of army service as a colonel in the E. T. O., and Charles E. McKenzie of Monroe, fifth Louisiana district representative in Congress, who returned to the state this week to attend the Sweet Potato Association convention at Oak Grove Wednesday.

Leaders of the various phases of the discussion were Lee Hawkins of West Monroe, Estelle Tannehill of Winnfield, Mr. Bolton of Bastrop, Horace A. Mangham of Rayville, Clarence E. Faulk, Jr., of Ruston, and Marvin N. Lipp of Oak Grove.

Boyle's Notebook

By Hal Boyle

CAIRO, March 16.—(AP)—Awad Hassan Aly has only one really bad habit. He likes to wash his feet in the kitchen sink.

That kitchen is workshop and temple for Awad, who looks like a cross between "Little Orphan Annie" and the end man in a minstrel show. He is known variously as "Awad the Great", "Awad the First" and "The Tarboosh Kid."

He is a 15-year-old orphaned Sudanese boy, lean and gangling with feet like tennis racquets and dangling hands as big as baseball gloves. He also has a grin as wide as a Kansas sunflower and a sweet and simple soul shining as his own white teeth.

It is something of an open question whether "Awad the First" was adopted by a group of Associated Press correspondents here or he adopted them. In any case his realm for two years has been their apartment and his reign is now irrevocably established. He has more titles than an Indian prince—chief cook, bottlewasher, custodian of the broom, mascot, and on occasions, office banker.

Each morning after brewing tea Awad presents his boss, Max Boyd, with a budget estimate of daily expenses and the first item invariably begins "food for Awad—six piastres."

Awad had to learn early thus to fend first for himself. He was born in a village on the Assam—Sudan frontier. When he was one year old his parents called in a local barber and he notched the baby's face to leave ever afterward the distinctive scars worn by these villagers.

His father died before Awad's memory begins and his mother died when he was ten. He came to Cairo and helped his brother cook for an Egyptian family until he took up "kitchen journalism."

When you first meet Awad you have an irresistable urge to grab up a plate and catch his hands before they drop off his loose hanging arms and fall to the floor. Later you learn those ungainly hands are deft enough at cooking up an appetizing breakfast although he has one weakness as a chef. Since he is a faithful Moslem, and therefore forbidden pork, he dislikes cooking bacon.

"It makes me dizzy," he says—so he usually serves it half raw. Awad will go down in medical history as one most consistent benefactors of trichinosis—the disease, not its victims. His own favorite dishes are beans and potatoes and dried dates.

There have been only two books in his life—the Arabic Phrasebook and the Holy Koran, bible of his faith. Five times a day Awad halts his tasks, kneels on a clean piece of cardboard spread on the kitchen floor, turns his face toward Mecca and prays to his God with the fervor of his guileless servant soul. At night he sleeps on that same floor.

Awad earns four Egyptian pounds a month besides his keep and turns most of it over to his two married brothers. But he has other mysterious sources of revenue such as the sale of waste paper. He also was a war profiteer and earned substantial amounts during the period of the desert battle by selling bottles left by visiting newspapermen after beer parties thrown during visits back from the front.

Most of this money is sunk by Awad in strange investments such as the Arab "chain letter" contribution system under which 15 Arab servants chip in a half pound monthly. Each month one servant collects the full amount and binges it.

Awad usually looks like he had just crawled out of a catacomb. But he has under lock and key one resplendent uniform for trips to western and gangster movies and visits to his relatives. It consists of a scarlet tarboosh had, a green Sidari jacket and a white and purple striped gallabya robe that would do justice to pharoah. There are bugles blowing in Awad's heart whenever he wears it.

He often lends money to hard pressed native news messengers. Since the Koran forbids him to collect interest he gets return on his investment by compelling debtors to clean the apartment for him. And in this he is as hard a taskmaster as old Schrooge himself.

Like many Egyptians Awad worships power and the topdog. Once when asked what he did with 10 piastres—forty cents—"baksheesh" or tip money he replied: "I saw the king. He was passing by and because I am little fellow I couldn't see over heads of the crowd. So I paid 10 piastres and rented a ladder and saw our king drive by."

His racket now is to collect 20 piastres "baksheesh" so he can hire two ladders "and see the queen too."

Inside The Nazi Spy Nest---No. 6

Egg Head The Jap Is Revealed As Nazis' Master Spy; Aliases Used

(World copyright by NEA Service, Inc. All rights of reproduction without express permission prohibited).

BY NEA FOREIGN SERVICE

STOCKHOLM, March 16.—(NEA)—Of all the intelligence agency at the "Radio Bureau" on Karlavaegen 59, there was none more versatile, more highly rated or more daring than the Hon. General Makato Onodera, Japanese Military Attache in Stockholm, otherwise known as "Eierkopf"—or Egg Head the Jap.

Discovery of the Jap diplomat's identity as the master spy on the Nazi payroll is one of Herr X's real scoops. The information came to him quite by surprise and due to the general's own carelessness.

For some time, X has noticed that there is a strange affinity in the reports filed by two agents known at the bureau as "Eierkopf" and "Dr. Emonotti." Both men are in the top class, drawing large sums of money for their reports which become ever more frequent and daring.

Who are these fellows and why do they so often appear in the same connection? Herr X would very much like to know, but for a long time his cautious inquiries failed to elicit any clues from his colleagues or superiors at the "Radio Bureau."

Then one day the mystery easily solves itself. X's boss, "Pandur"—who, at the time at least, is identical with the assistant air attache, Major Heinrich Wenzlau—hands him a letter for transmission to Berlin.

The Mystery Ends

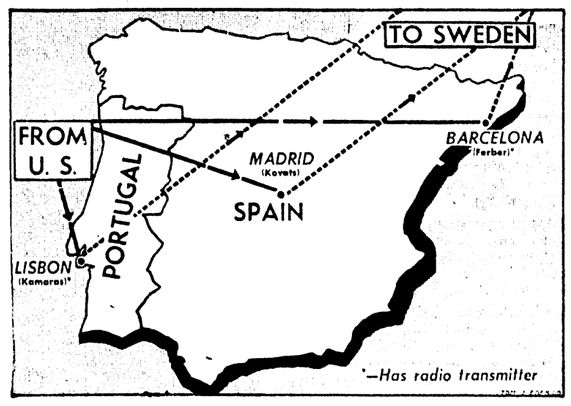
The letter, written in a strange lingo made up of broken German and spy cant, not only confirms X's earlier suspicion that "Eierkopf" and "Dr. Emonotti" are one and the same person. It further reveals, by one of those slips that occur in the best intelligence services, that both are identified with General Onodera, the Jap military attache!

Indeed, Wenzlau, who has told X that the message is from "Eierkopf," forgets to delete the signature at the bottom of the letter, which begins with "My dear Major" and ends with "Yours very truly—Onodera."

In this letter, Onodera, alias "Eierkopf," reports upon his third alias, "Dr. Emonotii," in the approved manner of the German intelligence service. He describes himself as "very honest," and inspired only by "patriotic motives."

Japanese General Makata Onodera alias "Dr. Emonotti" alias "Eierkopf" or Egg Head was as versatile, daring and highly rated as any intelligence agent in the Nazi spy ring in Sweden. Yet by capitalizing on one of those slips that occur in the best intelligence services, Herr X managed to link up Onodera, the diplomat, with "Dr. Emonotti-Egg Head," the spy.

Onodera reveals he previously worked in Ankara, but was forced to leave because of "anti-British activities." He was then transferred to Sofia where he "strengthened his ties of personal friendship" with a special emissary of the O. K. W. (German High Command), named Klatt, who was in charge of military intelligence in the near east and India.



This is Egg Head's personal spy network in the Iberian peninsula, which he offered the Nazi spy ring in Sweden. Herr Ferber in Barcelona and Kamaras in Lisbon have radio transmitters. Kovats in Madrid does not. Egg Head promised the Nazis that he would build up an espionage network to funnel information and reports between Sweden and the United States.

Next he proceeded to Budapest and finally to Stockholm.

Before parting from his bosom friend Klatt, Emonotti-Onodera promised him to "build up a network from Stockholm to the United States."

In fulfillment of this pledge, the Jap general informs the Nazi major that he already has at his disposal three tested spies on the Iberian peninsula. They are Herr Ferber in Barcelona (who possesses a radio transmitter); a certain Kamaras in Lisbon), (who also has a transmitter); and a man named Kovats in Madrid (who lacks similar equipment).

Ferber in Barcelona obviously is the key man in the setup. He not only operates a radio transmitter but also "a lady of Japanese-Mexican stock, who will soon leave for America to work there for Germany."

Names Spanish Diplomat

Onodera's letter also involves a Spanish diplomat, identified only as "Pratt," whom the Jap general first met "officially" in Turkey.

"A German liaison agent always worked with Pratt," he writes, and he, Emonotti, alias Onodera, "assisted Pratt and the German liaison agent in their work against Syria, Palestine and India."

Later, Pratt was transferred to Finland, but went to Stockholm instead —presumably on account of the armistice between Finland and Russia concluded in September, 1944. There Onodera "recently resumed contact" with him.

If there were any doubt left about "Dr. Emonotti's" real identity, it would be dispelled by two significant references to Japan in the letter.

In one passage, Onodera writes that Emonotti "in reward for his services" in setting up the three-man spy network on the Iberian peninsula "gets all information from Iberia for the Japanese intelligence service." In another, he refers to the "German-Japanese friendship" between Klatt and Emonotti.

When the Jap master spy first turned up in Stockholm, the Germans there were none too pleased. They did not want any competition, not even from their Allies. "Pandur" found it advisable to investigate the Japanese thoroughly before dealing with him.

This incident provides the best insight into the setup and workings of the German espionage system. One of the teleprinter reports contains the following notice in reference to Emonotti-Onodera:

"On the occasion of Pandur's visit to the Stadtbuero on January 8, E. (Emonotti) also had a talk there with our representative, who will thus be in a position to supply details about E. It would be interesting to know for which department the man works.

Underneath this item, a sort of inter-office memo gave the following explanations:

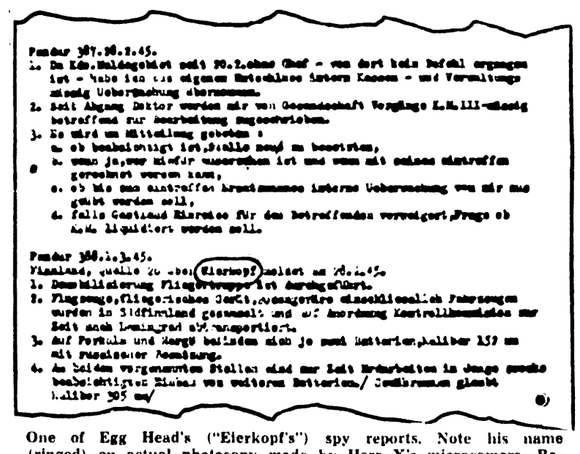
"Stadtbuero—the office of the S. D. (Gestapo Security Service), Berlin, Friedrichstrasse, House of the German Herald; our representative there—Captain Plage."

It is clear that this Captain Plage acts as liaison officer between the military intelligence service—formerly the "Abwehr,"—and the Gestapo's own foreign intelligence section, the S. D. It is also clear from Pandur's question "for which department (dienststelle in German) does Emonotti work?" that as late as January 1945, the old rivalry between the two intelligence outfits still persisted.

Whatever doubts Pandur, Plage, and the other Nazis may have had on Onodera's account, were dispelled when the Jap proved his usefulness. He proved to be a unique expert and wholesale dealer in, Allied codes.

A message (392/45) dispatched to Berlin by Pandur is significant in this respect. It reads:

"Can obtain from source Eierkopf the following diplomatic code-books: (a) Turkish (b) Vatican (c) Yugoslav (d) Portuguese (e) Brazilian (f) parts of British and American. Please inquire from decoding department whether they are interested. Since the material—part of it in the original, the rest photos is available for a short time only, request that the matter be handled with greatest possible urgency."



One of Egg Head's ("Eierkopf's") spy reports. Note his name (ringed) on actual photocopy made by Herr X's microcamera. Report deals with Russian activities in Finland after the armistice.

Later, "Source Eierkopf" extended his offer to the French codebook as well as the "British Government's telegraph code 1933." It appears from the records that a single transaction of this kind with the "very honest" Jap General relieved the Nazi spy still at Karlavaegen of 28,000 Swedish Kronor (about $7,000).

"Eierkopf" makes himself useful in other ways too. For instance, he supplies the Nazis with Russian newspapers, one copy each of Pravda, Izvestia, and War and the Working Class. A special photo department is set up at Karlavaegen 59 to make photo-copies of these precious papers for distribution to all interested departments in Berlin.

For three short months, the versatile Jap diplomat and general was the ace-in-the-hole of the Nazi spy center in Stockholm. In May, Onodera lost a good job, and in August an even better one.

A few months later, the whole bunch of Jap diplomats in Stockholm—genuine and spurious ones alike—was sent home by the Swedish government, in conformity with General Douglas MacArthur's request.

SAY BOMB WON'T BLOW UP WORLD

May Heat Up Part Of Ocean To Mere 1,000,000 Degrees

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Scientists assured the folks tonight that while the water around the undersurface atomic bomb may heat up to a trifling million degrees the ocean won't evaporate or the world blow up in chain reaction.

Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, commander of the project which produces the bombs, handed to the joint army-navy task force conducting the Pacific tests the statement of two scientists which, said the general, should "dispel the fear which is growing in the minds of many Americans." The explosions will be "completely localized," the general said.

The scientists are Dr. Edward Teller of the University of Chicago and Dr. H. A. Bethe of Cornell University, both former members of the bomb development project and now serving as consultants.

This is what they think:

"The explosion of an atomic bomb near the surface, on the surface or under the surface (these are the three experiments against warships) will cause only local disturbances such as we might expect from an ordinary charge of great magnitude. It is impossible that such an explosion can cause progressive disintegration of the sea water which would perpetuate itself and result in the atomic explosion of the globe.

Careful considerations have been made. First, it is known that elements contained in the water are also very abundant in stars. If the stars had a high rate of chain reaction, they would blow up or consume themselves. They don't, so it is deduced that sea water will behave the same way.

The atomic bomb contains a relatively high content of inert material. This means the temperature of the water around the bomb will be "comparatively low, namely in the neighborhood of 1,000,000 degrees," as compared with 20,000,000 or more for the center of stars. The conditions produced in the water therefore represent those at some place far from the center of a star.

Even those most probable of all known nuclear reactions would, at the temperature of 1,000,000 degrees, be insufficient to sustain itself against the losses of radiation, the scientists said. And it is certain that none of the reactions in water can be as probable as the above-cited example.

PRODUCTION TO SWING UPWARD

Automobiles, Refrigerators And Radios Are Brought Closer

(By Associated Press)

That post-war automobile, radio and refrigerator moved a lot closer to the homes of America's waiting millions last week.

Settlement of the General Motors and General Electric disputes broke the back of reconversion-impeding strikes and opened the gates for the return of nearly 300,000 workers to the production job.

If the strikers ratify the agreements—and labor and industry leaders expect they will—the workers will begin returning to their benches and assembly lines in a matter of days.

General Motors, for example, expects to have its assembly lines turning out finished cars by April 1, although some automotive sources expect that parts shortages will continue to plague full-blast production in the industry.

The General Electric Company is one of the nation's major producers of home and industrial electrical appliances, employing 100,000. A strike of 27,000 employes in General Motors electrical division was settled several weeks ago. However, another 75,000 still are on strike against Westinghouse Electric Corporation, and federal mediators will resume efforts Tuesday to settle this dispute.

Both the G. M. strike settlement involving 175,000 C. I. O. United Auto Workers and the G. E. agreement with the C. I. O. Electrical Workers have been approved by the councils of the respective unions and ratification action by the various locals was expected this week-end.

There were indications, meanwhile, that a strike of 7,000 machinists which has made idle some 50,000 in the San Francisco area for four and a half months, would end Monday.

Some 9,000 employes were expected to remain idle at two Bethlehem Steel Corporation shipyards, however. The company said it wouldn't resume operations because the government hasn't provided for reimbursement for higher wages.

Final statement of these three disputes would cut the number of strike idle in the nation from 675,000 to 350,000—lowest since last November.

However, three clouds remained on the labor horizon—disputes and strike threats involving 400,000 United Mine Workers, 200,000 members of two railroad brotherhoods and 30,000 west coast longshoremen.

John L. Lewis, who has filed notice for a possible mine strike April 1, combined his arguments on the Workers' Contract demands by putting the issue squarely up to the nation's soft coal operators.

The wages and working rules demands of the Brotherhoods of Railroad Trainmen and Locomotive Engineers, who threatened to strike more than a week ago and then postponed the action, are being studied by a presidential fact-finding board.

FIRST G. M. WORKERS APPROVE SETTLEMENT

DETROIT, March 16.—(AP)—The first Cleveland Auto Workers local to vote on the strike settlement agreement with General Motors approved it overwhelmingly today, according to the local president.

Members of Cadillac Local 22 of Detroit marked 1,200 favorable ballots to two unfavorable, President David Miller said.

The majority of the union's 96 G. M. locals in the nation were scheduled to vote Sunday on ratification of an agreement reached Wednesday giving them an 18 1-2 cent hourly increase and other benefits.

The national settlement terms were approved Friday by the 200-man conference of union delegates. Locals, however, were authorized to remain on strike if local grievances were not settled.

Meanwhile, company officials and union officers rushed meetings in efforts to reach an accord on the plant level differences. Chief among them, according to union members, are questions of seniority in the assignment of shifts and the piecework system.

Union officials predicted that a majority of locals would approve the contract before Wednesday, clearing the way for a return to work order.

Corporation officials said the vanguard of workers would be in the plants before the end of the week if the contract is ratified. They expect to resume production April 1.

Union spokesmen said a tabulation of local votes would be started Monday.

The national level terms were reached with the corporation Wednesday by the top negotiating committee as the strike which idled 175,000 ended its 112th day.

The storm, accompanied by torrential rains, then moved east across Alabama and into Georgia. Hail was reported at Macon, Ga., where some small buildings were unroofed, trees uprooted, and parts of the city left in darkness following disrupting of high tension electric lines.

The storm front was believed to have passed between Tuscaloosa and Moundville, where considerable damage to rural lines and buildings was reported.

THREE PERSONS ARE INJURED IN STORMS

MERIDIAN, Miss., March 16.—(AP)—Three persons were injured in storms last night in east Mississippi, which recommended torrential rains in the coastal area.

The rainfall measured 4.21 inches at Laurel, Miss., 3.47 inches at Biloxi, Miss., and 2.49 inches at New Orleans.

Rail washouts were reported, communications severed temporarily in some sections by flooding and winds, and considerable minor property damage done.

Mrs. Edward Boswell was hurt when her home was damaged by a tornado that struck the small town of Kewanee, in Lauderdale County, Miss., 16 miles east of Meridian.

The Kewanee blow also demolished a Negro church and blew down some barns.

Otis B. Patterson, a farm tenant and Grace May Lawrence, suffered broken legs when another blow demolished their homes in the Ovett community, a few miles south of Laurel, Miss.

spect to any agricultural commodity or with respect to any regulation, order, price ceiling or other requirement of the OPA to any processor with respect to any food or food product processed or manufactured in whole or substantial part from any agricultural commodity."

The bill, he said, "would include the price administrator, the reconversion director or the president himself."

He contended the OPA had no right to act without Anderson's written approval.

Accompanying Bankhead to the conference were Senators Overton (D-La.) and Thomas (D-Okla.), who is chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee. They were chosen to represent senators from the 10 principal cotton producing states who met this morning to plan strategy against the OPA cotton margin order.

Bankhead said the OPA was not permitted to fix ceilings on agricultural commodities, but was trying to do that indirectly in the case of cotton by regulating the exchanges. He said that the substantial increase ordered in margin requirements, bringing them up to $30 a bale, would restrict trading and tend to lower the price of cotton.

In addition to depressing the price, Bankhead said that the OPA policy would drive out small traders and let the large firms have a market to themselves. He said it was up to the secretary of agriculture to protect the interests of the farmers and Anderson was being asked to do that.

BEVIN SAYS OFFER SERIOUSLY PROPOSED

LONDON, March 16.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said tonight that his offer of a 50-year friendship treaty with Soviet Russia was "seriously proposed and seriously meant" and that he would pursue it "notwithstanding all the disappointments."

Referring to Winston Churchill speeches in the United States, Bevin told a dinner audience in Port Talbot, Wales, that "the policy this government is responsible for was defined in my speech to parliament on Feb. 21."

At that time, Bevin told the House of Commons that he wanted "friendship with the Soviet Union for all time," and said he would advise the government to seek to change the Russian-British 20-year friendship treaty to a 50-year treaty.

On March 13, Generalissimo Stalin, interviewed by Pravda, Communist party newspaper, attacked Churchill's speech at Fulton, Mo., and asserted that "one cannot take seriously the beautiful statement of Mr. Churchill's friends in England that the treaty between England and Russia should be prolonged."

"I will do nothing that even savors of aggression," Bevin declared. "I make an appeal to other countries, whatever their historical reasons, to eschew aggression either by propaganda or wars of nerves or by action which keeps other countries on the jump."

Referring to Churchill's Fulton speech, Bevin said, "I want to assure you that there was not the slightest consultation with the government and, also, that I had nothing to do with it."

"What he said was on Mr. Churchill's own personal responsibility," Bevin declared.

southern Iran, and said such rights "most clearly exposed" the "inimical attitude of the Iranian ruling circle toward the U. S. S. R."

In view of the situation in the south, said Izvestia, "the refusal to give the Soviet Union the right to concessions in the northern districts" amounts to "nothing other than defense of a monopoly position of the English oil concession in Iran."

The official government newspaper declared that the 1921 treaty, which Russians regard as the foundation of Soviet-Iranian relations, specifically said that in return for Russia's giving up rights to oil, mines, roads and other concessions, Iran promised not to turn them over to "any third state or its citizens."

Such a condition, applied to the concessions adjacent to Baku and the oil districts of Soviet Turkmen, "was dictated by the security interests of the Soviet Union," Izvestia said.

Declaring that British troops "intervening" against Soviet Azerbaijan and Turkmen in 1918-20, invaded Baku through the territory of the former Soviet concessions, Izvestia added:

"Therefore, it is entirely natural that the Soviet government, reckoning that Iran is located in the neighborhood of vitally important centers of the Soviet Union, and a place which served as a base for foreign intervention against the Caucasus and Turkmen, insisted that the concessions returned to Iran would not be given to foreigners.

"It rightly regards this condition as a known guarantee of the security of its southern frontiers."

However, Izvestia added, "the ink had not had time to dry on the text of the Soviet-Iranian treaty when the Iranian government introduced into the Majlis (parliament) a bill for granting oil concessions to the well known American Standard Oil Company in November of the same year, 1931."

This concessions, said Izvestia, embraced the northern provinces of Iran and was immediate to Baku, entering "into territories of many former Russian concessions. Therefore granting of this concession was regarded as a threat to the Baku oil district and a collision between the interests of the Soviet Union and the United States."

NO DANGER TO TEHRAN IS SEEN BY MINISTER

TEHRAN, March 16.—(AP)—A reliable source said today 3,000 Russian troops now were concentrated at Karaj, 20 miles northwest of this capitol, but the Iranian director of propaganda declared "there is no danger to Tehran."

Earlier today, War Minister Ahmed Sepehod Amir Ahmedi denied he told a news conference Thursday that the Iranian army would fight "to the last man" if Soviet troops moved on Tehran. He said his remarks were "completely misinterpreted" by a war department interpreter.

A dispatch to the newspaper Meryat Melli from Maragheh, 300 miles northwest of Tehran, said Soviet garrisons had been established at the desert villages of Takab and Shahindej—between Maragheh and Mianeh 80 miles to the east—where columns were reported in motion several days ago.

The dispatch added that the Russians were "moving back into railway points recently evacuated south of Mianeh."

Reports reaching here last night said Russian units advancing south around Urmia near the frontiers of Turkey and Iraq, had reached points 60 miles southeast of Saujbulagh, seat of the semi-autonomous Sheikdom of Kurdish Chief Ghazi Mohammed.

Prince Firouz, propaganda director and political undersecretary of state, told newsmen: "There is no danger to Tehran. The Russians have been in the country 4 1-2 years without attacking us. There is absolutely no threat of attack here now."

Tension in this capital noticeably lessened. Residents apparently were accepting the situation. Some wealthy families, however, have moved to village homes in the south and the daily train is booked solidly.

War Minister Ahmedi, appearing jointly at a news conference with Firouz, denied the statements attributed to him at Thursday's interview, given after Ahmedi had conferred with the Shah.

Furouz added that foreign radio reports saying Tehran residents feared a Russian invasion "are completely false." He handed out a copy of a paper headed "War Minister's Denial," which he asked newsmen to distribute "to correct false impressions created abroad."

Foreign newsmen were present at Thursday's conference, at which Gen. Ahmedi was quoted as saying that "Iran has shown to the would it is a peaceful nation, but if Russian commits an overt act, not only every soldier, but every boy and girl in the streets will fight to defend their capital."

He was quoted also as saying that the Shah intended to ask the United Nations security council to reopen the Iranian case, and that the concentration of Russian troops in Iran was a "definite threat to Tehran."

ing aid to France—an action which Hoover lauded at a news conference here this week—led to the assumption that Russia is no longer in need of grain from this country's limited supplies.

This decision to skip Russia came to light amid Washington reports that the selection of Hoover to make the hunger survey had been opposed by some top-ranking administration officials.

Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace was named as one of those who opposed Hoover. Wallace would not comment personally on the report but close friends said he is critical of the voluntary food conservation program sponsored by the government's famine emergency committee which Hoover heads. They said the secretary does not believe it will save enough food to meet the urgent need.

This, however, is not the first time the Truman administration has sought Hoover's advice and help on the food situation. Last May he was called to the White House for a conference on the food situation in Europe.

"We were about 100 yards from the landing strip," McInaney said, "and had started to make a glide in for a landing. The flaps wouldn't go down. Both engines quit, and we plunged into the water.

"We all got out—all four of us—and climbed on one side of the wing. It tipped and went down, and Dubberly went down with it.

"We got around to the other side and hung on. We were in the water about a half hour before a man came along and took us off."

The rescuer was a fisherman in a small boat, who took the survivors to the seawall.

MOSLEMS CRITICIZE ATTLEE STATEMENT

NEW DELHI, March 16.—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee's statement that India had the right to choose independence from the British empire was welcomed, with some reserve, by congress party quarters here today, but Moslems sharply criticized it.

Nationalist party leaders here and in Bombay hailed the assertion by Attlee that a minority should not be permitted to veto the advance of a majority. But this portion of Attlee's speech in commons drew the fire of Mohomed Al Jinnah, president of the Moslem league and leader of the Pakistan movement for a separate Moslem state.

"I regret that Mr. Attlee, though in a guarded and qualified manner, has done rope walking when he said 'on the other hand we cannot allow a minority to place a veto on the advance of a majority,'" Jinnah said. "He has fallen into a trap of false propaganda which has been carried on for some time. There is no question of veto or holding up the progress or advance of the majority."

Jinnah added that he believed Pakistan the only solution to India's constitutional problem.

Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, former president of the All-India Congress party, found the Attlee speech "certainly a change in tone and approach."

Sarat Chandra Bose, leader of the Congress party opposition in the central assembly, expressed hope that Attlee's words would be converted into action.

In Bombay, Maulana Abul Kalan Azad, now president of the Congress party, said he believed the spirit of Attlee's speech "will generally be appreciated in the country."

AMERICAN BRIDE TO GO TO ENGLAND

SHREVEPORT, La., March 16.—(AP)—The Queen Mary will end its role of a one-way carrier for brides wanting to join their husbands March 21, when Margaret Maclin of Shreveport leaves New York, bound for England and her new home.

The huge liner has been bringing thousands of English brides to their American husbands, but as for as is known locally, this is the first time an American girl has sailed for England to join a British husband.

Mrs. Finlay will meet ex-Lt. John Finlay of the Royal artillery at Southampton, and they will make their home either in London or Newcastle. She left yesterday, on the eve of her first wedding anniversary, for New York.

The Finlays were married March 17, 1946, in St. Thomas' Cathedral, Bombay, India. Lieutenant Finlay was stationed in India when his future wife arrived there more than two years ago to do Red Cross field work.

Mrs. Finlay's return to England evens the score for the Maclin family. Her mother was supposed to return there nearly 30 years ago from a visit to America. Instead she stayed—and married J. H. Maclin of Shreveport.

WALKING CAST TOE SOCKS REQUESTED

An "urgent request" for 100 walking cast toe socks, needed in hospitals treating war veterans for wounds, has been received by Mrs. Arthur M. Kite, chairman of knitting for the Ouachita chapter of the American Red Cross.

How quickly the local chapter can provide the 100 knitted socks will depend greatly on the response from volunteer knitters willing to devote just a bit of their time in helping provide these socks essential to the rapid recovery of wounded soldiers.

"The war is not over for these wounded boys still in hospitals," Mrs. Kite said, "and we can only bring it to a close for them by doing anything in our power to speed them to recovery. One hundred walking cast toe socks is all that is asked of us and we'll surely do our best to have them ready as soon as possible."

Volunteer knitters who wish to aid in making the quota are requested to communicate with Mrs. Kite at phone No. 5729-J for thread and instructions.

can, Nationalist and Communist officers who are dispatched to trouble areas for on-the-spot pacification.

In other parts of China, Marshall said, these groups have straightened out "what seemingly were impossible conditions" with almost never a failure.

Arrangements for the operation of such teams in Manchuria were completed, in principle, the general said, only about 10 minutes before he left China on his way here.

Marshall did not talk about Russian or Russian policies in China although when he was asked whether he knew whether the Russians actually were evacuating Manchuria at the present time he said the United States had no observers in there and reiterated that he considered the situation in that country critical.

The crisis arises, at least partly, Marshall brought out, because there are Communist forces in Manchuria areas from which the Russians are pulling back, who never have gotten the word that the Chinese Communists and the Chinese National forces are being merged.

Here are the high spots of the Manchurian-Chinese situation and other points which Marshall emphasized in his news conference.

1. An army of American-trained Chinese troops, the best in China, "now embarking for Manchuria," presumably on American ships, in order to take over control there.

2. Meanwhile United States marines and army forces, the latter being non-combatant, are being cut to a minimum as fast as possible.

3. While the Chinese are carrying forward a peace effort in their own country "almost without precedent," Marshall warned that the accomplishments may still be wrecked "if China is ignored or if there is scheming to thwart the development of unity at present aspirations."

4. He appealed for American assistance to China, describing financial help as very necessary along with supplies of railroad equipment, cotton and factory machinery.

"The next few months," he said, are of tremendous importance to the Chinese people and to the future peace of the world." He said today that he is going back to China as soon as his work here will permit.

En route home, Marshall reported he stepped off in Japan to see General Douglas MacArthur, discuss with MacArthur the use of Chinese troops in Japan, and he expects the announcement of the Chinese participation to be made very soon.

DELHI IS READY TO SHOW STOCK

Sixth Annual Exhibition Will Open Bigger Than Ever March 19

DELHI, La., March 16—(Special)—The sixth annual Northeast Louisiana Livestock show will open here March 19 for a four-day exhibition which promises to eclipse any similar show held here.

The attractive catalogue mailed out in large quantities contains in its preface a greeting from Mayor W. H. Farmer, who is not only the town's chief executive but also is manager of the exhibition. In it he pays tribute to members of the association, breeders, 4-H clubs and all who have contributed to making these events unsurpassed in the state.

George B. Franklin is president of the association, J. B. Smith is vice-president and the office of secretary-treasurer is filled jointly by C. C. Cutter and F. L. Bryant. Lorris M. Wimberly and Rom L. Vance are superintendents of the gaited show horse department, and other department heads are G. D. Cain for 4-H clubs, F. L. Bryant for swine, Harry P. Hayden for beef cattle and Guy A. Luno for dairy cattle. The catalogue was edited and compiled by Rom L. Vance, who is publicity chairman.

Tuesday, March 19, the opening day will be given over for the most part to the horse show department, with 15 events slated for the afternoon and 12 for the night program. Judging of steers and heifers and swine will begin at 4:30 p. m. on the first day.

Hereford, Polled Hereford and Aberdeen-Angus cattle will be judged on the second day, Wednesday, starting at 9:30 a. m., and that afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, will be held the district 4-H club show, with farm youngsters of 11 northeast parishes exhibiting the beef and dairy calves they have been conditioning since last summer.

Judging of dairy cattle in the main livestock show will begin at 9:30 a. m. on Thursday, March 21, and at 1:30 p. m. will be held the North Louisiana Hereford Breeders sale. The latter is sponsored by the Louisiana Hereford Association, of which Jim Gilfoil, of Tallulah, is president; F. L. Jennings of Greenwood, vicepresident; and W. T. Cobb, Baton Rouge, secretary-treasurer.

The closing feature of the program will come at 2 p. m. Friday, the 22nd, with an auction sale of 4-H club livestock and market cattle and hogs.

TRAINING SCHOOL PROVES SUCCESS

The Ouachita Valley Sunday School Training School was held at the First Baptist Church, West Monroe; March 4-8. The enrollment was 314 with seventeen out of the twenty churches represented.

Under the able leadership of Rev. J. H. Keys, superintendent of promoting training activities, D. C. Black, O. F. Watts secured the finest corps of Sunday school workers obtainable.

Dr. William P. Phillips, of the Sunday school board, Nashville, Tenn., led the adults in the training school; Rev. Mark Roberts, state secretary, E. E Smith, state board; Miss Meda Franklin, state board; Mrs. H. L. Morrow, Mrs. C. P. Thompson, Mrs. O. F. Watts and Mrs. Fred Bennett were the workers.

Peniel Baptist Church led the association in having the largest number of Teachers and officers in attendance. E. H. Miller, superintendent of the association, was accorded recognition for a splendid work in promoting better Sunday schools in the association.

DISTRICT P.-T.A. HOLDS MEETING

Mrs. Blanchard, Dr. Mary Mims Are Guest Speakers

Representation from many parishes attended the Fifth District Conference of the P.-T. A. held in the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium, Friday night. Outstanding features were the addresses of Mrs. Paul A. Blanchard, state P.-T. A. president, and by Dr. Mary Mims, of the staff of Louisiana State University, on the subject, "Social Hygiene."

Awards also were made to local units.

Following registration and assembly singing led by C. S. Cadwallader, Jr., with Mrs. C. L. Dillingham as pianist invocation was pronounced by Rev. R. T. Watson. Miss Kate Perkins gave the address of welcome and Mrs. F. C. Bennett, as P.-T. A. council president, extended greetings to the assemblage. Mrs. W. W. Storment followed with response.

Mrs. Blanchard urged all members who can do so to attend the convention in Shreveport. She stated that P.-T. A. in the state has now 32,000 members and she declared they must make their power felt in the legislature where needed. That the group is political, she assured, for she declared it must be political when the future of the children is at stake.

The state survey of schools, made about two years ago, was discussed. She said that a prominent and capable educator from the north, Dr. Washburn, had charge of the survey and that it was most complete and also it cost approximately $100,000. The findings in this survey were passed upon by 2,700 citizens in this state and she stated that there were 96 recommendations which, if carried out, many already having been put into effect, will greatly improve the schools of the state.

Compulsory school attendance and the child labor law were discussed. She declared that they are most salutary and that legislation will be watched to see that they are not affected adversely by later statutes.

She said that the law that permits entry in school of a child five years and eight months of age, should be repealed and that efforts to that end will be exerted in the next legislature. She stated that we are just now getting into effect 12 grades of school and that the purpose is to see thereby that graduates of high school are more mature but if they are entered into school earlier, that the good effect of the addition grade will be thereby nullified.

The next project that will be urged upon the next session of the legislature will be that of making the office of superintendent of education appointive. Now it is elective and the post becomes and is too bound up in politics, she stated. When the official is appointed, she declared that it will be less of a political football. All boards in the state, she pointed out, with the exception of education and agriculture, are now appointive.

Mrs. Kate Perkins introduced Dr Mims as the next speaker.

Dr. Mims stated that she has greatly enjoyed being a visitor to the fine schools of Monroe. She said she liked the P.-T. A. group, which is a partnership between parent and teacher. She said the schools should be governed by teachers and parents who love our children. High praise for the wonderful development of schools in Denmark was given, where illiteracy is almost unknown and where youngsters in the third grade are taught to save their money and have a bank account.

Such things as these make for good citizenship, she assured. Social hygiene, the theme of her address, begins in the home, she said. It starts at the mother's knee. There is the foundation of good citizenship. Then one can be assured that at the age of 21, the boy or girl will be so educated that he will support at the polls and in his lifework the principles of our government.

Dr. Mims stated that she made a recent visit to a girls' training school and that she discovered that the girls were really fine girls at heart but that they had not received the correct social hygiene in their early home life. Too often a child grows up as a social dwarf, she said, and this is reflected in their entire life. Were there more correct social hygiene in the home, reform schools would never be required, she stated.

Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, district director, presided at the meeting. Miss Gertrude Sandrock, of the faculty of Northeast Junior College, rendered two well-appreciated solos.

Awards to local units, made by Mrs. W. S. Vincent, were as follows:

Certificates for showing a 10 per cent gain in membership the past year were given to the following school P.-T. A. groups: Bastrop, East Side School; Bastrop, West side school; Transylvania, Mer Rouge, Oak Ridge, Sterlington, Georgia Tucker, Barkdull Faulk, Lida Benton, Ransom, St. Matthew's, Neville, Claiborne, Mitchell, Crosley and Sherrouse. A special award was given Beekman for its having made the largest membership percentage gain of all the schools.

Five life memberships were awarded to the following: Miss Myrtle Rodgers, Georgia Tucker school; Mrs. Stanley Hodges, St. Matthew's school; Mrs. Wade Cotton, Sherrouse school; Miss Maida Moore, Lida Benton school, and Mrs. C. W. Williams, Barkdull Faulk school.

Scrap book ratings were awarded as follows: Superior to Georgia Tucker and Sherrouse (tied for this place), excellent ratings, St. Matthew's, East Side School, Bastrop; Barkdull Faulk, with honorable mention to Bastrop Central Grammar School.

J. ROOSEVELT HITS CHURCHILL SPEECH

CHICAGO, March 16.—(AP)—James Roosevelt, son of the late president, said today "the kind of speeches Mr. Churchill has been making in this country are harmful to the peace of the world."

"We in the United States must maintain the same position we held in the war," he said at a news conference, "one indicating to all people we have formed no pact or division against any group."

He said he favors sending an envoy of "integrity such as Henry Wallace" to Russia to obtain complete facts of the Russia-Iran situation, which he stated is "not yet fully understood in this country."

"If you talk enough about World War III, you'll get it," Roosevelt said, "However, I don't think there is any immediate danger."

Roosevelt arrived in Chicago today for a meeting with representatives of the mid-west division of the Independent Citizens' Committee of Arts, Sciences and Professions, of which he is a national political director.

MONROE USO HAS ENJOYED COLORFUL WAR-TIME LIFE

Club, Opened Here For Persons In Armed Service, Now Closing

USO came to Monroe in July, 1942, upon the invitation of a committee of citizens from the community. The members of this committee were appointed by the churches, civic and service organizations of the Twin Cities. Among these Mrs. Victor Davis and Walter Kellogg were active. On July 3, 1942, Charles Julianna arrived. Shortly thereafter the second floor of the building occupied by the Young Men's Hebrew Association, was secured as a club facility. Later the entire building was taken over and renovated. Mrs. Davis, assisted by many women of the community, began to recruit the necessary volunteers and junior hostesses. On August 25, 1942, the Defense Recreational Council was invited to become the new Monroe USO Council. At its first meeting, Walter Kellogg was chosen chairman and Mrs. Ben Breard was elected secretary. Among those who attended the first meeting were: Mesdames P. A. Hoag, A. D. Tisdale, Ray Schroeder, Messrs Sig Masur, Abe Blumenthal, Richard Kellogg, R. M Breard, Elmer Slagle, Leon Hammonds and others. Mr. Kellogg was later succeeded by Mr. Murray Hudson, the present chairman. The council today is made up of the following persons:

Father Henry Freiburg, moderator; Murray Hudson, chairman; Leon Hammonds, Sig Masur, Rabbi F. K. Hirsch, S. K. Henninger, R. M. Breard, Jr., A. Petrus, Elmer Slagle, Sam Rubin, Richard Kellogg, Joseph Smith, Walter Savage and Mesdames A. D. Tisdale, H. A. Whitfield, Ben Breard, Bunn Beasley, M. C. McDonald, Morris Haas, Robert Cowden, treasurer. The commanding officer, personal service officer and post chaplain were ex-officio members of the council.

One of the first official acts of NCCS was to invite Father Henry Freiburg to become moderator of the club. Father Henry has truly become the "Father" of the Monroe USO-NCCS club. No job ever was too big, or too small for Father Henry to tackle. He became the friend of all "G. I.'s" and volunteers and directors. Much of the early success of the club can certainly be credited to Father Henry.

Later the NCSS committee was formed. It consisted of the following members. Father Henry, O. S. M.; Mesdames D. E. Bivins, Ben Breard, A. Petrus, M. E. Bell, J. J. Devereaux, Burt Hollis, Fred Hill, W. B. Morrison, Charles Reed, W. E. Reardon, Willian Zimsmeister, Tony Zurga, Clarence DuBos, Miss Leona Biggar, R. M. Breard and Miss Rose Danna.

This committee as well as many others that were later formed, gave valuable help in the operation of the club.

Mrs. Carmen Bivins is the present chairman of this committee. A great share of the credit for the success of the club is due to the more than 1,500 volunteers, who gave over 460,000 hours of their time to help the staff operate the club. The volunteers were organized in July, 1942, and a little later the junior hostesses, later known as the "WINGS" were organized. Mrs. C. C. North was volunteer chairman until 1944 when she was succeeded by Mrs. Bessie Stern, who served until January, 1946. These volunteers served as information hostesses, snack bar aides, program leaders and chaperones. Practically every organization in the community supplied its quota of volunteers who in addition to other duties supplied flowers, cookies and decorations.

The program schedule includes events and ideas that appealed to all types of service people and their families. Bingo, picnics, weiner roasts, group singing, pie auctions and the Sunday morning coffee hour were among the popular events. The Saturday night dances were always well attended and was probably the most popular form of entertainment furnished.

Among the memorable events sponsored by the community and staff were the Mardi Gras celebrations, the Christmas parties, Halloween party in 1943 also the Easter egg hunt and weiner roast at Bernstein park in 1943. The generosity of the community made these events outstanding in USO programming. At one Christmas party the boys ate 500 pounds of turkey, 600 pounds of ham and 400 cakes. All of this was prepared by the women of the community.

The grand evenings spent on the Ouachita river in the boats of Captain and G. B. Cooley and James A. Noe will be long remembered by the folks who have since left Monroe. Movies, teas, billiard exhibitions, radio programs and theatricals were staged on various occasions.

Not so spectacular but greatly appreciated were such services and accommodations as sewing and mending, information services, housing bureau, check room, gift wrapping, showers and shaving.

The snack bar was always a popular spot and USO hamburgers gained wide fame. As an example of service rendered it is interesting to observe that 240,000 showers were taken in the club and 300,000 razor blades used. Over 1 1/2 million pieces of stationery were given out and 300,000 parcels were checked. 18,000 men used the dormitory.

Since its organization the USO has had as members of its staff Charles Julianna, John Leonard, John Murray and Charles A. Braun, as directors; June Meredith, Sol Levin, Sam Collins, Daisy Coty and Helen Wasson as assistant directors. Mrs. Neil Bennett as staff aide; Frances Haile, Mrs. Emmett Bell, Mrs. Ethyl Newport, Mrs. Evelyn Risher and Mrs. Ballard as staff assistants also.

The club has been under the direction of the National Catholic Community Service who operated for USO. The National Jewish Welfare board was the associate agency.

The formal closing of the club will take place at a termination ceremony to be held on Sunday, March 24, at 4 p.m. Prominent speakers, enjoyable entertainment and refreshments are promised by the USO council and staff. The volunteers, Wings and general public are invited to be present at this final program.

SNEAD 6 STROKES AHEAD IN TOURNEY

Picard, Little And Cooper Trail Virginian In Jacksonville Golf

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Sam Snead, who concedes "playing pretty good golf these days," fired a six-under-par 66 today to pull six strokes ahead at the half-way mark of the $10,000 Jacksonville Open golf tournament.

The long-driving pro from Hot Springs, Va., defending champion in the local meet, went out in 31 and took a 35 coming back to put his 36-hole total at 130.

In second place is the veteran stylist Henry Picard of Oklahoma City, with 136. Following are Lawson Little of Monterey, Calif., and Pete Cooper of Gainesville, Fla., with 138's.

Ed (Porky) Oliver of Taunton, Mass., who held second place yesterday with 67, faltered today and took a 74 for 139.

Today's round was the Slammer's show all the way. He racked up five birdies going out and picked up another coming in, slowing up and playing a more conservative game on the back nine.

Snead started the round by carding birdies on the 330-yard par-four first hole, the 451-yard par-five second and the 370-yard par-four third. On the 150-yard fourth, he was 25 feet from the pin on his tee iron and got down in two for a par.

The Virginian belted out a 300-yard drive on the 449-yard par-five fifth hole and was high on the green with a crisp iron. He sank in two for another birdie.

On the sixth, a 160-yarder, Snead's tee shot was seven feet from the pin and he dropped it for his fifth birdie in six holes.

For the rest of the round, the Slammer never quite regained the feather touch that netted him the earlier birdies. He played steady golf, however, and was in serious trouble only once—on the hard-trapped, 500-yard 16th hole.

His drive slanted into the rough and a deep trap separated it from the green. Trying a chip out of the stubbly rough, his stroke was weak and the ball popped into the deep sand.

Calmly studying his lie, he lofted the ball with a spectacular explosion shot and sat it down 10 inches from the pin. He sank it for the regulation four.

The 36-hole windup will be played tomorrow, the double round being forced when showers delayed the tourney's start.

Leading scores:

Sam Snead, Hot Springs, Va., 64-66—130

Henry Picard, Oklahoma City, 70-66—136

Pete Cooper, Gainesville, Fla., 67-71—138

Lawson Little, Monterey, Calif., 72-66—138

Sam Byrd, Detroit, 69-70—139

Jimmy Demaret, Houston, 70-69—139

Frank Stranahan, Toledo, 72-65—140

Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans, 71-69—140.

Denny Schute, Akron, 70-71—141

SIXTEEN YEARS APART

Sixteen years is a long time between champion hip basketball teams but John Spatafora of Spatafora's Pharmacy inactive as a local basketball team sponsor since 1930, came back into the game the past winter to produce the Red Shield Junior Basketball League champion Spatafora Pharmacy quintet shown in the upper picture. The coach of his present Junior team, Ralph Marionneaux, S., was a player on Spatafora's 1930 championship team in the old City League, shown in the lower picture. Spatafora's Juniors, left to right, are Front row, Donald Stewart, Eddie Fo—, Ralph Marionneaux, Jr., Harold Bassett, Billy Barnes and Bill Smith; back row, Coach Ralph Marionneaux, Bubba Fleming, Francis Varino, Dario Sullivan, Jimmie George, Guy Elliott and Spatafora. The old City League Spatafora squad is, left to right, Front row, Clyde Humphries, Marionneaux, Ernest Mackem and Mason McEnery; back row, J. Moore, Arthur Broome, Jimmy Tonore and Harold Wise. Kneeling in front is Spatafora.

PHARMACY QUINT WINS TITLE AS DID ANOTHER TEAM IN '30

Spatafora's Repeat After 16 Years; Marionneaux Sparked Both Teams

When the Spatafora Pharmacy quintet of the Red Shield Junior Basketball League entered the local cage circuit's championship records marked the second time in sixteen years the Jean Spatafora Food Agency had backed a chief team and the coach of the Junior quint, Ralph Marionneaux, was a prep star for Spatafora's veteran cage squad when his Druggists won the old City basketball League championship.

The Spatafora Druggists of 1930 entered the end of John Spatafora's ventures as a basketball backer until the past winter when he entered the Spatafora Agency-sponsored Red Shield Junior Loop. There's a wide difference in the caliber of ball played by Spatafora's Pharmacy outfit in the two Spatafora teams, the 1945 edition finishing in fast company with the finest basketball talent in the section and the players were all the highest grade.

The Junior team, however, can be robbed of none of its glory. While the boys are by no means set to be considered "finished products" they were the cream in their age class. With the early start these boys have gotten and the might development which comes when boys attain the age that those players are of 1930.

Marionneaux, whose only previous experience as a basketball player has been coming to Monroe and posing in City League play was attained at Ouachita High School. A coach of the Junior team he had under his direction his own son Ralph Marionneaux, Jr., who shows promise of developing into as great an athlete as his dad who has also figured prominently in local baseball and football circles for several years.

Young Marionneaux won double distinction for himself this year. Not only was he outstanding for the Spatafora Juniors but he also played in the Red Shield Senior League for Coach Bill Smith's members of the Downtown championship club of the Senior loop.

The Spatafora Juniors were awarded their championship trophy at a banquet at Hotel Frances last Tuesday night and individual medals were awarded to Donald Stewart, Eddie Fo—, Ralph Marionneaux, Jr., Harold Bassett, Billy Barnes, Bill Smith, Bubba Fleming, Francis Varino, Dario S. Jean, Jimmie George, and Guy Elliott, members of the squad.

The Spatafora Drugs quintet of 1930 competed against such talent as the Rose Paper Mill Safety Firsts, Millers S. H. Adler's Aristocrats and others in what was considered the fastest and most powerful basketball league ever organized here. The City League organized by such local enthusiasts of the time as Paul J. Neal, Leo Hartman and W. C. Royce, existed in the late 1920s and early 1930.

The league was responsible in a big way for the development of the Rose Paper Mill Safety Firsts into one of the nation's most powerful A. A. U. teams in 1931 and 1932 when the Safety Firsts under Player-Coach Cary Phillips twice won the Southern A. A. U. championship and were runners-up for the national title once.

Phillips, who like Spatafora is a druggist himself now, is still a follower of basketball. The former Ole Miss and Safety First star coached the First Baptists of West Monroe in the Red Shield Senior League this year.

MIKAN DRAWS BIG PRO CAGE SALARY

DePaul U. Star To Get $60,000 For Playing With Chicago Quint

CHICAGO, March 16.—(AP)—When George Mikan, DePaul University basketball star, graduates from college in June he will receive a $60,000 salary for playing professional basketball, it was announced today by Max Winter, president of the Chicago American Gears of the National Basketball League.

That figure is one of the highest ever paid a player in any sport. Only Babe Ruth, baseball's all-time home run king, received more money—$80,000 for two years—during the Golden Age of baseball.

Mikan, a 6-foot-10 center, is the big gun of DePaul's cage team and a 24-game scoring average placed the junior star second behind Bob Kinney, a 22-year-old coach who will continue his law studies while the checks are coming in.

It's no wonder the professionals were bidding for his services, when you look at his cage record as DePaul's No. 1 basketball star. "Big Mike" not only is a scoring ace, he's an exceptional team player who is as valuable shooting the ball to his mates as he is in tipping it through into the basket.

He claims goals from more than 20 feet away from the basket. But contrary to the conception of a player he's said to get the ball down the floor and into position where he can pass to a mate who scores. He follows.

He's equally as valuable on defense and his almost catlike ability under his own basket has saved DePaul's Demons many games.

Offensively, however, he has been one of the country's best. This season he has scored 532 points in 24 games for a 22-plus average to rank first in average and third in scoring in the nation.

His total for four years of competition at DePaul was 1,870 points in 98 games. The Helms Foundation in Los Angeles named him to the "all-time all-American college team."

He'll play his first game with the pros against the Anderson, Ind., Chiefs here Tuesday night and will be teamed with three other former DePaul University cage captains, Dick Triptow, Bobby Neve and Stan Stutilla.

Then he'll get a real test as the world championship cage tournament opening on Chicago Stadium on March 23.

MOSCONI RESUMES MATCH

KANSAS CITY, March 16.—(AP)—Willie Mosconi, world's pocket billiards champion, prepared to resume his cross-country match in St. Louis tomorrow with Junior Carter, Wilmington, Del., after cueing a 6,545 to 5,517 point lead with conclusion of 10 blocks' play here.

Carter scored 125 points to the Barrington, N. J., champion's 108 in six inning game yesterday and 125 points to Mosconi's 38 in a three inning game last night.

Following play in St. Louis, the match will be completed in Chicago.

U. S. NET CROWN WON BY SEGURA

Ecuadorian Beats Don McNeill In Four Sets To Capture Title

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—Pancho Segura, the tightly-wound little Ecuadorian who swings a tennis racquet with both hands, captured the United States Indoor Singles Championship today with a four-set victory over former titleholder Don McNeill, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5.

The South American parlayed a superb passing shot and an uncanny defensive game into the triumph that took the title out of the United States for the first time since Jean Borotra carted it to France in 1931.

McNeill contributed to his own defeat by committing more errors than he had made in all his other matches in this first National Indoor Tournament since 1941.

It was a sudden switching in tactics by the Ecuadorian ace which forced McNeill into the mistakes that ruined his chances of recapturing the title he held in 1938.

McNeill, 27-year-old Oklahoman, wrapped up the first set with the loss of only one game.

He dropped the first four games of the second set, the first three of them without winning a single point. He rallied to take the next three games but Segura broke his service to increase the lead to 5-3 and ran out the set with a love game on his own serve.

After Segura copped the first two games of the third set, the games followed service until McNeill broke through to even it at 4-all. But Segura grabbed the next two games and the set.

The final set started similarly, but McNeill forged ahead, 3-2 and was leading 5-4, when Segura rallied to run out the match by taking three games in a row.

McNeill and Frank Guernsey of Garden City, N. Y., who won the doubles title at the last previous tournament in Oklahoma City, downed Segura and Alejo Russell of Buenos Aires, 6-4, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 in the finals to salvage that title for the United States.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—Maybe it's a thought basketball players were going around in circles all the time and you wouldn't be far wrong on such dizzy doings as that Rhode Island-Bowling Green tournament game the other night. . . . But when the rules-boys gather this year, they will enforce a new proposal involving circles. . . . Big Six conference teams, under the guidance of Missouri's George Edwards, have been experimenting with having three circles on the court and when there's a held ball, calling for the jump in the nearest one. . . . The idea is that it goes away with calling for jumps at inconvenient places, such as the corners, without taking up much more time. . . . Another idea that may come up is to shoot all fouls as technicals, followed by a center jump, to avoid the waste of time that comes from sorting out players as they line up for the free throw.

Shirts and Shells

The fleet for the new lighting texas—not Yankee stadium—is being shipped from California. If it follows the Joe Di Maggio example, it will hold out for a couple of seasons. . . . The Syracuse U. basketball team which plays in the Garden tournament tonight broke every Syracuse cage record except won-lost percentage this season. . . . Barney Ross is tossing a party Monday to celebrate his debut in the toy business. . . . For the first time in about a decade, an official golf guide will be published this spring. Golfers who have been cussing synthetic balls probably will claim it isn't as long off the tee as the pre-war books. . . . John Munski, out of the army after four years, is working out on the Missouri U. track while he's finishing his work for a master's degree. . . . The big question is whether he can master Leslie MacMitchell over the mile route.

Not Discharged, Fired

The army should cook up some special decoration for Ben Mysell, Gar McDonald, Bruce Wilkinson and Curley Barker of the Portland, Me., harbor defense basketball team. . . . They were eligible to be discharged yesterday but decided to stick around to play in the Boston Garden All-Service tournament this week-end. Their team has been runner-up in the first service command for five straight years and the boys wanted to go out with a win. . . . The boys didn't get their wish but at least they will get home quickly for they bowed out of the tourney in the opening roune last night.

AVANTS TO BUILD NEW TEAM FOR OUACHITA PARISH HIGH

Lion Mentor, Recently Returned From Navy, Opens Spring Practice

Coach Mack Avants, out of the navy and back at the helm as head coach in directing the football fortunes of Ouachita Parish High School, has just completed one week of spring football practice and the prospect of seeing the Lions open their fall campaign with just three regulars back for their fine club of the past year.

The backfield is shot with Miller Frey, Maurice "Red" Rawls, Thomas Menefrief and Sam Brothers graduating. Fay Duchesne remains as the only backfield performer of note the past season who will be in harness again in September, and Duchesne, fullback last year, is taking over new chores at the all-important left halfback post.

Other "regulars" lost are End J. E. Tripp, Tackle Charlie Johnson, Guards Carlton Potier and Dan Willensky, and Center Billy Hargiss, along with such reserves as Guard C. J. Fontana, Center Roy Ferrington, End New Newman, and Guy Wood.

Left from the line are only C. L. Wink, big tackle, who is being moved into a guard position, and "Sonny" Webb, end.

But James Trichel, a letterman quarterback on the 1944 Lion team although not regular, has again reported to the Lions after missing last season while serving in the armed forces during the war. Trichel is a mighty welcome addition to Coach Avants' forces at a time when the pickings are looking mighty slim.

Looking impressive in workouts the past week were such aspirants for regular jobs as Tackles Harold Linzay and Marvin Deerman, Guard Graham Humble, Center Tommy Wilson, End James Perry, Quarterback Trichel, Fullback Lawson Fleming, and Halfbacks Duchesne, Charles Venable, Mark Boatright, and E. J. Sievers.

One of Avants' biggest problems is finding a punter and passer capable of replacing the remarkable Miller Frey, backfield standout of the 1945 eleven. Duchesne, Boatright, and Sievers are being given extra work in this department.

Coach Avants expects the training grind to run over a period of eight weeks, ending with an intra-squad game. Practice games have been lined up on a home-and-home basis with Bastrop, Ruston, and Haynesville. Jonesboro-Hodge may also be contacted for a pair of exhibition tilts.

Members of the spring training squad are:

Right halfback, Bill Collier, Bill Landley, Gerald Matkins, Venable, and Sam Manzala.

Centers: Tommy Wilson, Gerald Harbour, Jack Smith and Danny Sullivan.

Right ends: Robert Kirby, Perry, and Douglas Finely.

BASEBALL PEACE IS BEING SOUGHT

Gardner And Cohen Think U. S. And Mexico Can Get Together

MEXICO CITY, March 16.—(AP)—Two U. S. baseball leaders—J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League, and Andy Cohen, former New York Giant infielder now managing El Paso in the Mexican National League—spoke out today for a baseball peace between the U. S. and Mexico.

Gardner, here on a vacation, volunteered to come to Mexico after the 1946 season as a goodwill ambassador provided Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler and minor league Chieftain William G. Bramham would accept the proposal.

Cohen said he would try to bring U. S. teams to Mexico City next spring to train as the guests of Aztecas, Mexico City entry in the Mexican National League, which is a class B loop in organized baseball.

The Mexican National League is not to be confused with the Mexican League, sponsored by the wealthy Pasquel brothers. The latter is not in organized baseball.

"Jorge Pasquel, president of the Mexican League, is such an honest man that if approached in the right manner he could be convinced that organized baseball is the right procedure," Gardner explained.

The Texas League boss said he believed that a Mexican League could have a population total to qualify for AAA rating—similar to the American Association, International or Pacific Coast League—under the U. S. system.

Cohen, here with El Paso for the opening of the Mexican National League season, said that at next December's minor league meeting he would seek the fullest possible cooperation of U. S. baseball with that of Mexico.

TRIPLICATE WINS RICH ANITA RACE

War Valor Second, Old English Third In $50,000 Capistrano Handicap

ARCADIA, Calif., March 16.—(AP)—Fred Astaire's Triplicate romped away with the $50,000 San Juan Capistrano handicap, Santa Anita Park's closing day feature, by five lengths. War Valor was second and Old English third. Rated carefully by Jockey Job Dean Jessop, Triplicate was timed in 2:28 2/5, beating the track record for the mile and one-half by four-fifths of a second.

While War Valor and Be Faithful were setting the pace for more than a mile, Jessop kept Triplicate in contention, no worse than fifth at any point. Coming through an opening on the far turn, the five-year-old son of Reigh Count turned on the heat and ran away from his rivals in the stretch.

An outsider that finished sixth in last week's Santa Anita handicap, Tripilcate paid $22.60, $12.50 and $8.30. War Valor paid $18 and $9.70, while Old English closed fast to return $7.60 for the show.

Triplicate's win was worth $40,030 to Astaire.

N. J. C. GRIDDERS FACE SCRIMMAGE

Malone Maps Schedule Of Rough Work For Squad In Spring Training

After two weeks of preliminary work in which individual signal drill and fundamentals predominated daily activity, Coach James L. Malone plans long hours of rough and tumble scrimmage for his Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. Indians who are now in the midst of their spring football training grind.

The Tuesday schedule especially calls for a tough scrimmage, not under game conditions, in which timing of plays and individual blocking will get special attention.

Coach Malone last night declined to to name any particularly outstanding boys or give any inkling of how his team was shaping up.

But noticeable among the impressive Redskin squad were Joe Bob Tyler, freshman on the 1942 team back from military service and candidate for guard; Bob Robinson, standout tackle last autumn; Charlie "Bud" Cain, fine Ouachita Parish High School guard of 1942 who is after the same job at N. J. C.; and Charles Moore, Bastrop, stellar Indian end last season who is getting a trial at guard.

A striking pair of ends loomed as E. F. Cummings, Monroe, member of the squad last year who missed seeing action when he suffered an arm fracture during early fall training, and Gene Turner, a squadman on the 1942 Redskin squad who is back from service.

The No. 1 center at present looms as Durrell Foreman, youngster up from the Bastrop Rams.

Another combination consisted of Dovie Hindmon, Bastrop, quarterback; Percy Bedgood, Monroe, fullback; "Stick" Atkins, Bastrop, left half; and Joe Slocum, Columbia, right half. Other good backs in camp are Walter Johnson, standout back last season who is taking things easy so far in spring training while favoring an injury suffered last fall; and a pair of newcomers from Bastrop, Talmadge Foreman and Wig Riley.

Linemen winning special notice are Bob Edwards, a football freshman but a standout in basketball the past season; Jim Malone (no relation to the Indian coach), a left guard from Brownsboro, Tex.; George Foster, freshman center of Pollock; George Waters, right guard; and squadman of last season; and Feeby Cane, right tackle, and Dalton Boyd, left tackle, both members of the 1942 club back from military service.

J. M. McBeth, blocking back last season, seems destined for a position at guard as Joe Bob Tyler's running mate. Coach Malone said he was considering such a shift with the probability that Moore would return to his duties at end.

McBeth, however, has been missing spring training while perfecting his lines for a leading role in "H. M. S. Pinafore," an operetta to be presented by N. J. C. students at Brown Hall Tuesday night. After the show, he will join in the squad.

WORLD ECONOMIC POLICE PROPOSED

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 16.—(AP)—Plans for a sort of international economic police force were outlined in rough form here today as the initial meeting of the governors of the World Fund and Bank drew near its close.

The parley itself had only a few major items left on its agenda—one of them involving a pointed Anglo-American discussion of salaries.

Lord Keynes of the British delegation, after consultation with his government, continued to object strenuously to a committee proposal that heads of the Bank and Fund should receive $30,000 a year, net after taxes, and the 24 executive directors $17,000 net.

He contended the salaries were out of line with those paid in the countries concerned and would hang a millstone of expense around the two agencies. American delegates argued high pay would attract the best available men.

NUMA AND CORRAL IN MAT FEATURE

Bashara And Lee Other Half Of Double Main Event Card Thursday

Leo Numa, the "White Lion" of Seattle, Wash., will show before wrestling fans of this area for the first time Thursday night at Gus Kallio's Arena when he meets Alberta Corral, Mexico City, in one half of a double main event program.

Numa, also known as "The Spoiler," is a former truck driver and football player for the University of Washington.

Charlie Hanson, Swedish partner of Promoter Kallio when both were young in the wrestling game back in 1920-21-22, now resides in Washington state and tutored Numa in the art of wrestling.

Hanson advised his old partner, who has been promoting here for the past seven years, that Numa is a "fine looking and clever" wrestler. Numa, a Swede like Hanson, is reputedly exceptionally good with the flying toe hold, and earned his name, "The Spoiler," because he is good at ruining records for other top flight wrestlers.

"Just let any wrestler run up a good string of consecutive victories, and Numa will be sure to ruin it for him if they meet," Hanson wrote Kallio. Orvie Brown, with a string of 26 straight wins, had his apple cart upset by the Seattle battler recently at San Antonio, Tex.

Corral, Numa's opponent for the brawl, made his local debut last Thursday night.

The other half of the impending program will bring together Ellis Bashara, the Sooner from Oklahoma, and Don Lee, huge Atlanta, Ga., grappler.

Both matches will have time limits of an hour and 15 minutes with two falls to win.

Promoter Kallio also announced that Bill Hartsell, Marshall, Tex., would be back to referee both bouts. Hartsell has refereed the last three programs for Kallio, turning in jobs well received by local mat critics.

BABY MAY NEVER KNOW HOW HE HELPED A PAL

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y.—(AP)—The diaper service situation being what it is, this report on the lengths to which friendship is carried in Port Washington should be of interest.

A young married woman had been living with her parents here and using such a service for her baby. She moved away but another daughter and baby were to move in two weeks later.

To hold down rights to the service for two weeks, grandmother called on a friend, also a young mother, to obtain the requisite supply of soiled diapers daily. However, that friend's baby was partly trained and did not produce a sufficient supply of used baby linens to keep both services interested. So the friend enlisted the help of still another mother and baby on the project.

Friendship is like that in the suburbs of New York.

BOY PICKETS MOVIE TO PROTEST PRICE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Bernard L. Meyer, 18, decided that movie prices were too high, so he made a picket sign and started parading back and forth in front of a Brooklyn theater. Arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, Bernard was brought into Adolescents' Court.

Bernard told the magistrate that movie admissions had jumped from 30 to 75 cents and thought the theater owner ought to be brought into court.

"I think you're a little too young to solve the problems of the world," the magistrate ruled, and he sent the boy home with a stern lecture:

"You can't start a one-man campaign just because you dislike something or some place of business."

GO SOUTH, YOUNG MAN, GO SOUTH

ATLANTA—(AP)—In Georgia the accent seems to be on youth.

Three years ago the state elected Ellis Arnall governor, who was then 35, the youngest in the nation.

Recently Douglasville, Ga., citizens began boasting of their young mayor, 28-year-old Harold T. Mosely, Sr.

Then two other towns put in their claims for the youngest mayor—Chatsworth and Lavonia.

Chatsworth presented 24-year-old Mayor Bill Groves. Lavonia puts forward Mayor Ernest Vandiver, who is a few months younger than Mosely.

Georgia, incidentally, is the only state in the union which permits 18-year-olds to vote.

PELS PREP FOR TRACK, BASEBALL

L. T. I. Plans To Participate In District Rallies For Two Sports

Having wound up their basketball campaigns the first week in March, the Louisiana Training Institute Pelicans are now engaged in preparations for activity in both baseball and track. This is the first spring since 1942 that the Pels have sought to produce track and field team.

The North Louisiana Rally for these particular sports was last conducted in 1942 also, having been abandoned during the war, and the locals, who finished fourth in Class B competition that year, plans to participate in the revived rally this spring.

L. T. I. plans to enter teams in baseball, softball, and volley ball in addition to track. The volley ball and track teams will be coached by Willis Tarver, football and basketball coach, and the baseball and softball teams will be handled by Kermit Youngblood who for five years was head coach at L. T. I. before becoming principal four years ago.

Material available for all four sports is very meager, it was reported, as there are no boys on hand with previous experience in track or volley ball. Two played softball last year in the local Junior league, and only one has any previous baseball experience.

In spite of this, enthusiasm is high, and competition is keen for all the teams. Workouts are being conducted from 4 to 5:30 p. m. daily.

Schools desiring to fill schedules with baseball or softball games are advised by Principal Youngblood to contact him at the school here.

Coach Youngblood put his baseball club through a practice game yesterday.

PHILLIPS CAGERS TOP A. A. U. TOURNEY LIST

DENVER, March 16.—(AP)—The Phillips 66 Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla., with their feared five-alarm offense, will be on the spot as favorites when the National A. A. U. tournament, billed as "the fastest basketball show on earth," gets under way tomorrow.

But it'll be no easy chore for the Oilers to hang on to the title they've won three straight seasons. For this year's 64-team field, says A. A. U. President Bill Greim, is just about the toughest ever entered in the World Series of amateur cagedom.

A 24-game program tomorrow will launch the A. A. U.'s annual classic and for seven consecutive days the country's top amateur teams will continue to batter the hardwoods of this dribble-dizzy mountain metropolis.

Sunday pairings include(times all eastern standard:

12:30 p. m.—Borlos A. C., San Francisco vs. Camp Robinson, Ark.

Remaining pairings for which game tickets are not yet fixed include:

Pike Burden Club, Baton Rouge, La., vs. Chapel of The Oaks, Oakland, Calif.

Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn., vs. Rudy and Headlunn, Salt Lake City.

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Although he will send some players to the Braves' farm clubs next week, Manager Billy Southworth said today he will not announce his first team until he is "positive I haven't overlooked anyone."

In 1946, the average American will get about 3,369 calories a day compared to 3,250 in prewar years.

World's Latest Market News

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—Leading stocks continued to move selectively upward in today's brief market although demand still was timid, dealings among the slowest of the year to date and numerous issues exceptionally "thin."

Aircrafts retained their popularity as larger military plane orders were expected. Air transports did well, propped by the proposal to handle all first class mail by air now being considered by the post office department.

The pace slackened after a fairly active opening but plus marks of fractions to 2 points or so predominated near the close. Transfers ran to around 500,000 shares for the two hours.

Bonds held to a generally slim course. Commodities were uneven.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15/16th-inch cotton at ten designated southern spot markets today was 10 cents a bale higher at 26.47 cents a pound. Average for the past 30 market days was 26.30. Middling 7/8-inch average was 24.73.

New York

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—The cotton market closed higher today after early irregularity. The market followed an irregular trend most of the session, averaging 25 cents a bale lower to 10 higher. Late covering lifted prices.

Hedging sales, believed to be against recent purchases of cotton from the Commodity Credit Corporation, attracted commission house profit taking for over the week-end. Trade dealers absorbed contracts.

Quietness was attributed to a tendency to await Washington developments on wages and price controls. Crop news was favorable.

Futures closed 20 to 35 cents a bale higher.

BONDS IN JACKSON UNDER ARMED GUARD

JACKSON, Miss., March 16.—(AP)—About a half-million dollars in negotiable bonds, part of Mississippi's cash treasury surplus was under armed guard Friday night.

Today the reason was revealed. The time lock on the vault in the state treasurer's office had broken and there was no way of locking the vault.

State highway patrolmen guarded the office all night from outside, as state law forbids anyone to enter the office between sundown and sunup.

"I was afraid that somebody might not be familiar with our sundown-sunup law," Newton James, state treasurer said, "so I thought it would be a good idea to have somebody around with a little firepower on their hips."

Incidentally, there is a burglar alarm outside the office of the treasurer, but it has been out of order for a long time.

The vault time lock was repaired today.

SWEDEN GIVES FINLAND MORE CREDIT FOR TRADE

STOCKHOLM —(AP)— Sweden has granted Finland a new credit of $7,000,000 to buy Swedish goods during 1946 and 1947 under a new trade agreement signed in Stockholm. Sweden has already given Finland $105,000,000 in credits.

Aside from foodstuffs, the trade treaty provides for export of Swedish iron and steel, semi-manufactured metal goods and machines which Finland needs badly to help her meet her war reparation obligations to Russia. Finland promises to deliver to Sweden more than $7,000,000 worth of wood products, porcelain and pottery ware.

VOCATION WEEK IS SPONSORED

St. Matthew's Sodality Hears Of Possibilities In Many Lines

St Matthew's High School Sodality, in union with Sodalities throughout the United States, sponsored its annual Vocation Week, March 10-16 at the school. The week began with mass and Holy Communion, Sunday at 8 a. m.

Monday at 10:30 a. m. Dr. F. Rizzo and Mrs. J. D. Cameron, R. N., spoke on the medical profession. E. D. Cascio, vice-prefect of the sodality, was the presiding officer of the day. The patron saints were Sts. Agatha and Cosmos and Damian.

Dr. Rizzo said that even if a doctor were working at some country crossroads, with but few farm houses, he would at least be supplied with food, if not with money, but there are few doctors who amass riches. Their greatest happiness is the knowledge that they have saved human lives. He pointed out that a doctor should have a vast knowledge, and therefore he should begin to study when he is young.

Mrs. J. D. Cameron stated that nursing began with the first mother who placed her cool hand on the forehead of her sick child. In giving her sketch of the history of nursing and its contributions to human beings, she exhibited dolls, dressed to represent outstanding personalities in the nursing profession.

The program was concluded with choir selections under the direction of Sr. Rose Marie, D. C. Rev. H. W. Hubley, director of the Sodality, led the opening and closing prayers.

On Tuesday a discussion was held of a business career by C. DuBos. On Wednesday an unique program comprised a talk on "The Married State" by Mrs. Burt Hollis, Miss Mary Jean Hollis and Norbert Miller in the form of a skit. Thursday the last of the series was given. The subject was "The Religious Life." Speakers were Sr. Burnett, O. S. F., and Rev. E. Sheridan S. J. Religious selections were rendered by the school's choir. The speakers pointed out that the religious life is the guiding light through life's pathway.

TOWN'S ANNEXING RIGHT IS UPHELD

BATON ROUGE, La., March 16.—(AP)—Gueydan (and other Louisiana municipalities) has legal authority to annex contiguous territory providing that enough of the new territory abuts the town so as to allow free ingress and egress, the attorney general's office has informed E. W. Stebbins, mayor of Gueydan.

Robert G. Chandler, special assistant attorney general, who prepared the ruling on the question, advised Stebbins that the territory in question, which lies along 60 feet of the town's present boundary, is sufficiently contiguous for annexation.

Other recent rulings of the attorney general's office hold:

That a notary's commission continues as long as the notary's bond is renewed every five years, and that temporary absence from a parish does not invalidate a notorial commission.

That legal services in connection with a bond issue for constructing school buildings in Lake Charles are due by the city attorney of the municipal council and not the city school board, has the authority to call the bond election and issue the bonds.

That movables brought into a parish or taxing subdivision subsequent to January 1 of tax year are assessable there.

PYTHIANS TO MEET

Stonewall Lodge No. 8, Knights of Pythias, will confer the rank of knight on a large class Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. The El Mino Temple No. 1, Pythian Sisters will next meet on March 25 and the Dokeys plan a ceremonial March 26.

RECEIVE BACK PAY

NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—(AP)—The Western Union Telegraph Company has paid a total of $300,000 to 700 employees in New Orleans, in retroactive wage payments, J. C. Jackson, company superintendent, announced today. The payments were made under agreement by the company and the American Federation of Labor to accept a War Labor Board finding. Jackson said that retroactive payments for 60,000 employees nationally, exclusive of general officers, would amount to about $21,000,000.

Father J. C. Marsh, pastor of St. Matthew's Catholic Church, will continue his Lenten course on the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

The subject matter this Sunday will be of interest to all—as Father Marsh will explain in detail the ceremonies of the mass and the meaning of each vestment used at mass.

The instruction will be followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock, Father D. A. Curren, assistant pastor, will have as his subject "Happy and Unhappy Marriages."

GIDEON DAY IS SET ON SUNDAY

Busy Program Arranged For Today In Various Meetings

Feature of "Gideon Day" in Monroe Sunday will be dedication and presentation of 240 Bibles for rooms of Hotel Frances at an "Honor-God's-Word Rally" on the Cherokee Terrace at 2 p.m. to which the public is cordially invited.

The program will include special music congregational singing of old-time gospel songs and hymns, and an address on "Missing Bibles" by a representative of the Gideons who will emphasize reasons for keeping Bibles out in plain sight in hotel rooms at all times. The message will be illustrated with verified experiences which indicate the influence of Bibles on the lives of many who have discovered them in hotel rooms, and of others who have stolen them from such places.

The invocation will be offered by Rev. P. M. Carraway, pastor of First Methodist Church, of West Monroe, and president of the Greater Monroe Ministerial Alliance. Special music will be provided by a mixed quartet from First Baptist Church, Monroe, and D. C. Black will lead the congregational singing.

The prayer of dedication will be offered by John T. Paul, who is Bible secretary of the Shreveport camp of Gideons; presentation of the Bibles will be made by Gideon J. D. Carroll, of Monroe, and accepted by E. C. Gibson, manager, on behalf of Hotel Frances. Rev. E. L. Tanner, pastor of the Assembly of God, and secretary of the Ministerial Alliance, will pronounce the benediction.

Gideon activities Sunday will include, in addition to the Bible rally, the conducting of the morning service at Louisiana Training Institute at 7:30 a.m., and the delivery of messages at Sunday schools of the Church of the Nazarene and Assembly of God; morning services at Memorial Methodist and Emmanuel Baptist Churches; the Brotherhood of First Baptist Church, West Monroe, and the evening service of College Place Baptist Church. Other services are planned for later dates at First Baptist, First Methodist, First Presbyterian, First Christian, Central Assembly of God, and Calvary Baptist Churches. Speakers have previously appeared at Ridge Avenue, Trinity and Central Baptist Churches, and First Methodist Church of West Monroe.

REGISTRATION PERIOD ENDED

Courses In Night Classes Are Initiated At Northeast Junior College

Registration for science and business courses in the Northeast Junior College night school has been closed, W. L. Perkins, director, announced. All classes for which college instructors are available have been formed, he explained. Enrollment for work in other fields is still possible, however.

Courses scheduled at night are offered at the local college through the general extension division of Louisiana State University, and carry regular college credit which may be applied on work toward the bachelor's degree.

Classes usually meet twice weekly for two hours during a nine-week period.

Veterans who have part-time employment may enroll for six semester hours of credit and obtain full government subsistence. Those holding full-time positions are not eligible for subsistence but they will have their fees, books and supplies paid for by the government.

In addition to regular classes, veterans are entitled to receive private instruction in music at government expense. Lessons in voice will be given in the afternoon rather than at night.

Requests are being made for sophomore courses such as American history and English literature. Interest is shown also in the following work: Public speaking, history, agriculture, music and freshman English. The course in public speaking will be practical also for persons who do not plan to work for a bachelor's degree, Mr. Perkins said. It is considered worthwhile training for those who are interested in public affairs or in organizations, he added.

For further information regarding night school classes, telephone 4200.

Feminine Citizenry Now On Move Attending State And National Conventions

Conventions Are Now In Progress

Club Women Will Attend Meetings In This City During Month Of March

Lady delegates are on the move. The first peace time spring in many years finds feminine citizenry attending national and state conventions as never before. The urge to attend club meetings, naturally suppressed in its wider manifestations during the war, has broken loose and the eyes of club women are bright with expectancy. Reconversion may present problems to line the brows of statesmen but the heart of the average woman is light and gay this spring. The prospect of certain reversions . . . most notably the reversion to the annual practice of gathering for national and state conventions is quite enough to buoy up the spirits of the average club woman.

Here in Monroe club women are busily engaged in plans for spring activities. The next few weeks will be unusually busy with district meetings and state conventions claiming the lion's share of attention.

Today members of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ruston, Springhill and Shreveport are gathering at the Frances Hotel for their annual district meeting. A Luncheon at noon in the Mirror Room will highlight the day's program. Miss Maible Hood, one of the most ingenious members the local club has ever known, has employed all her artistic skill in arranging a St. Patrick's Day theme for the luncheon table.

Mrs. Gladys Miles, president of the Monroe Business and Professional Women's Club, will preside at the luncheon today. She will introduce the state president, Mrs. Ray Theaux of Lafayette and two past presidents, Mrs. T. L. Witter of Alexandria and Mrs. Eunice Stuckey of Ruston. Mrs. Marie Wheeler, state treasurer of Shreveport, and Mrs. Harriet Johnston, district chairman, will also be introduced.

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of the Louisiana Federated Women's Club, will be the principal speaker. Her subject, "Political Evolution of Women," will contain much food for thought. Mrs. Tisdale, one of the most popular and certainly the most progressive and civic spirited state president the federation has ever known, has a way of stimulating others with her own enthusiasm. She has a gracious way of welcoming new clubs into the federation and doing with all her might whatsoever her hands find to do. Mrs. Tisdale has kept herself informed on affairs of a diplomatic nature throughout the war and has attended forums in New York City restricted to people of importance. In spite of the discomforts of travel she has attended every national meeting in federated club circles and has given the members of the Louisiana Federation the benefit of her experience.

Monroe will again be hostess to a hundred or more visiting club women next Friday and Saturday, when the Louisiana Federated Music Clubs hold their annual convention at the Frances Hotel. There will be a veritable feast of music presented at this time with the choral festival Friday night on the terrace claiming music lovers of this community. The hour is 8 o'clock and the public is extended an invitation.

Luncheon on Saturday will be one of the social highlights of the convention. At this time the junior members will be in attendance. The presence of state officers will lend considerable luster to the two-day convention.

LOVELY BRIDE

The former Miss Doris Elizabeth Burdeaux, above, was married to Floyd A. Temple at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Burdeaux, last week.

Miss Doris Burdeaux Weds Floyd A. Temple At Home Of Parents

The marriage of Miss Doris Elizabeth Burdeaux and Floyd A. Temple was solemnized at the home of the former Miss Burdeaux's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Burdeaux on March 9. The ceremony was performed by Dr. C. E. Autry in the presence of the families and a few close friends.

The living room of the Burdeaux home, where the ceremony was performed, was beautifully decorated with white daisies and potted ferns.

Miss Joy Michael acted as bridesmaid and wore an attractive model of pale blue with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Mr. James C. Johnson attended Mr. Temple as best man.

The bride was exquisitely dressed in a pale pink original model with a white hat of horsehair braid becomingly trimmed in pastel spring flowers. Her corsage was a lovely orchid. The bride carried out the old tradition of wearing something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue. The article borrowed was a dainty gold necklace belonging to the aunt of the bride.

Immediately following the marriage, a reception was held at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Temple cut the two-tier wedding cake which was placed in the center of the lace-adorned table with small containers of flowers attractively arranged around it.

Mrs. Fred Freeman, Mrs. Mac Fitch, Mrs. Fay Burdeaux and Miss La Tralle Kutz assisted in extending courtesies during the afternoon.

The bride is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish High school and attended Northeast Junior College. She is a member of the Beta Delta sorority.

Mr. Temple is a graduate of Rayville High School and Northeast Junior College. He was an outstanding member of the football squad at both schools. He is at present employed by the Southern Oil Exploration Company in Monroeville, Ala., where the couple will make their home for the present.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Temple, Mr. and Mrs. McKay of Rayville, Mrs. Olan Carpenter, Mrs. Gussie Rundell, and Mrs. Joe Hart and children, Patricia, Joe and Karen, of Longview, Texas.

Local Garden Club Makes Tour Of City

Monroe's Beautiful Gardens Visited By Members Of Monroe Garden Club

Every year when the red bud trees fling their scarlet banners around the city, members of the Monroe Garden Club make a tour of the beauty spots and enjoy to the fullest the beauty reflected not only in the redbud trees but the flowering shrubs, the azaleas, camellias, forsythia, tulips and all the other harbingers of spring.

The handsome Colonial home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ewing on Island Drive was the first place visited by Garden Club members. They were met in the garden by Mrs. Ewing, who led them on a tour of the exquisitely designed gardens. There was no need for Mrs. Ewing to point out and give the correct botanical names to all the growing things in her gardens as Garden Club members are well informed on things of a horticultural nature. The Ewing gardens are especially noted for rare camellias and azaleas. Low azalea bushes border the flagstone walk leading up to the entrance and will soon be ablaze with color.

The next garden visited was the Aylmer Montgomerys where Mrs. Montgomery conducted her visitors through the real garden to the conservatory where camellias are highly cultivated. Perhaps the most perfect and the rarest varieties in this section of the south are grown in this hot house.

Mrs. Cecil Jarrell's garden was another beauty spot visited during the afternoon. In this quiet garden fragrant with the perfume of hyacinth, violets and jasmine, refreshing iced punch was served.

Mrs. O. M. Grisham's garden now a riot of color was visited. Continuing their tour these apostles of beauty visited the A. L. Harrington garden where they were delightfully received. Some time was spent admiring the white tulips grown successfully by Mrs. Harrington. The water of the pool shimmered in the afternoon sunshine and birds caroled gayly in the branches of the towering trees.

Later in the afternoon a visit was made to the W. C. Feazel home. It was quiet and peaceful in this garden with its view of the broad Ouachita river. All the flowers of early springtime were in full bloom and were a source of great delight to Garden Club members.

The tour ended in Mrs. W. N. Reynolds' old fashioned garden in West Monroe. Here springtime was reflected in all its pristine beauty with violets bordering the walks and jonquils springing up everywhere. Forsythia, bridal wreath, yellow jasmine, in fact all the flowers associated with old time gardens now bloom profusely in this garden spot.

It was a beautiful day so Mrs. Reynolds served her visitors refreshments out of doors where the late afternoon sun cast long shadows on the grass. She was assisted by Mrs. O. N. Reynolds.

Farmerville

On Thursday afternoon February 14, a tea was given in the attractive home of Mrs. Dewey L. Barr, in Farmerville, between the hours of 4 and 5 o'clock by Circle 4 of the Farmerville Baptist Women's Missionary Union, climaxing the focus week for the Intermediate Girls Auxiliary.

The guests were greeted on the threshold by Miss Ruth Hartman and Miss Mazie Nell Roan, and requested to register by Miss Jean Dawkins.

Lovely red camellias, hyacinths and other early spring flowers in effective arrangements graced the entertaining suite. The tea table was covered with a Chinese linen and lace cloth, and a low crystal container of red flowering quence formed the central floral decoration, flanked on either side by red tapers burning in crystal caldelabra. At the end was a crystal punch bowl, presided over by Mrs. W. M. Averett, the young people's director. Dainty heart-shaped open-faced sandwiches, salted nuts and confections carrying out the Valentine motif, were placed along the board and served by Miss Peggy Cobb and Miss Dawn Taylor.

The leader, Mrs. D. O. Otts, extended an invitation to each girl to tend the regular meetings of the auxiliary.

The guests enjoying this delightful occasion were Misses Ophelia Simpson, Kathleen Ford, Ann Miller, La-Jean Waller, Gloria Dawn Futch, Linda Tugwell, Johnnie Nell Kilpatrick and Rev. W. M. Averett.

Other members from Circle 4 assisting Mrs. Barr in extending courtesies were Mrs. Drue Miller, Mrs. J. A. Wainwright, Mrs. Earl Taylor and Mrs. John Lee Turnage.

Mrs. Ivan Jones, the former Miss Mattie Grey Albritton was honored with a miscellaneous shower on last Saturday afternoon, February 16, between the hours of 3 and 6 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Lott Jones.

The guests were greeted by the hostess, honoree, and her mother, Mrs. Math Albritton and Miss Mary Frances Dozier. Mrs. Ernest Auger presided over the register.

An assortment of beautiful spring flowers were placed at vantage points throughout the entertaining suite. Delicious refreshments, consisting of chicken salad sandwiches, olives, cake and punch were served by Mrs. Dan Albritton and Mrs. Clarence Albritton.

The honoree's popularity was evident in the number of handsome and useful gifts she received on this delightful occasion. One hundred and thirty guests called during the receiving hours.

Mrs. W. A. Grafton left Thursday for a visit with her brother, Mr. P. G. Savage. She will be joined there by her son, C. M. Durwood Grafton, who is returning from Hawaii. He will spend several days there with her.

Mrs. Carl Miller of Farmerville, joined by her daughter, Miss Marie Miller of Lake Charles, spent the week-end at Vicksburg, Miss., with her daughter, Miss Bettye Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett, Jr., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lee and Mrs. Ed Everett.

Honoring the Senior Class of the Farmerville High School, Mrs. John Lee Albritton, Mrs. Wilber Taylor and Mrs. Fred Pecan were hostesses at a Valentine party in the Agriculture Building in Farmerville on Monday evening, February 11.

The reception room was aglow with burning red tapers and decorated with white and blue crepe paper. The lovely refreshment table was white-featuring beautiful red roses intertwined with Southern smilax and red tapers.

Upon arrival the guests were greeted by the hostesses, and soon the room was filled with laughter over such lively games as "Postman," "Hearts Speak," and "Valentine Greetings," in which James Elkins took the prize. Another prize winner was Miss Bertha Mae Tubbs, who outguessed all the others in the guessing game.

Following the entertainment the Seniors were served punch, sandwiches, potato chips, olives, dainty heart-shaped cookies and candies.

The hostesses presented each one present with a Valentine souvenir. Those enjoying this happy affair were: Misses Dawn Taylor, Peggy Cobb, Ruth Hartman, Flovce Miller, Sudie Farrar, Kathleen Ford, Bertha Mae Tubbs, Lorece Hicks, Ouida Bridges, Dorothy Lee Nolan, Mozelle Bridges, Claudie Mae Hally, Jean Dawkins, Margie Beal, Marilyn Stewart, Johnnie Nell Kilpatrick, Margie Phelps, Inez McDougle, and Messrs. SOCIALLY speaking

Natchez is fortunate in having so many beautiful spring flowers in bloom during the pilgrimage. A large number of out of state visitors are enjoying the tours to the homes and gardens.

The Confederate ball is attracting much favorable comment. The tableauxs depict the ante-bellum days in customs and in costumes. The auditorium where the ball is held resembles an old fashioned garden in bloom.

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT THE FIRST METHODIST CHURCH FOR THE LATE LENA DODSON PARKER

Footsteps were left on the sands of time by a Monroe woman, the late Lena Dodson Parker, whose memory has been kept alive these many years by her kindly deeds and actions during her lifetime.

The Sunday school class she founded during the early days of her marriage when she came to Monroe as the bride of the late Mr. Jack Parker, is still in existence and composed of a group of civic spirited young women who will honor her memory at a memorial service at the First Methodist Church next Sunday evening, March 24, at which time the class will contribute one thousand dollars to the building fund in honor of Mrs. Parker. This amount was raised by the class during the past year when they sponsored the Clair Tree Major theater plays for children. When one becomes a leader in a community, a guiding light among her people, an inspiration to those who choose to follow in her footsteps, little does that person realize her measure of influence and the number of years that that influence will continue to spread within the hearts and lives of those who come after her.

In the early years of the nineteenth century Lena Dodson Parker was just such a person in this community. The editorial written in "The Daily Independent" Monday, January 15, 1912, by Fannie May Trousdale and the obituary written by the editor, C. H. Trousdale both chronicle how this community mourned the untimely death of this young woman who, at 29 years of age, passed away. The editorial stressed her beauty, her accomplishments, her charm and graciousness that was irresistible, a charitableness unbounded, a dominant factor for good in the community and a leader of every good and worthy cause. She organized the interdenominational class in the First Methodist Church called the "Grows" class, numbering nearly 100 men and women."

After Mrs. Parker's death this class was named the Parker Memorial class in her memory. On Sunday, March 24, this class will pay tribute to her many years of influence upon the lives of more than one thousand members that have been numbered in this class during these thirty-odd years.

Rev. E. K. Means, who served this church as pastor twenty-five years ago, has been invited to deliver the main address. Mrs. Parker's daughter, Mrs. Felix Pugh, of Portland, Ark., and her family will be honor guests. Members of Mrs. Parker's class during her life-time and the years following will also be special guests.

Miss Juanita Porter is president of this class and Mrs. A. R. Holloway and Miss Julia Wossman are teachers. They extend a cordial invitation to all who desire to honor the memory of Lena Dodson Parker to attend the service.

A delicious first course can be quickly prepared by tossing fresh cooked shrimp with Russian dressing to which has been added a few dill or caraway seeds.

Odd Fellows, Rebekahs Enjoy State Meeting

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs enjoyed a most eventful day at the state convention at Shreveport last week. Fully 50 members made the trip by auto to the sessions from Monroe, special buses being operated in some instances. Special guests were Mayor and Mrs. H. H. Benoit.

The drill team and officers of Rebekahs were lovely in white gowns with pink corsages. Installing officers and guests had special seating arranged in their honor.

Speakers included Governor Jimmie Davis and Mayor Sam Caldwell. Other special guests were from Utah, Texas, Kentucky and New Mexico. Monroe Rebekahs surprised Mrs. Josie Morrow, president of A. R. A., with a handkerchief shower. All branches were in attendance at the Caddo Hotel banquet which was a most enjoyable event.

After the officers were obligated there was an impressive ceremony in which Mrs. Nobie May Tarver, of Monroe, and three other members were presented with the highest honor of the Rebekah Assembly.

Pictures were taken of the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs on the steps of the Municipal Auditorium.

Mrs. Thomas W. Leigh, honoring her sister-in-law, Mrs. Howard Platt Milwaukee, Wis., motored the past week to Natchez, Miss., to participate in the annual Pilgrimage being conducted there. In the party were Mrs. Christine Moore, Mrs. B. W. Leigh and Mrs. O. M. Grisham.

Mrs. H. H. Baur was hostess Friday night at her home, 221 Pargoud Drive, honoring Mrs. J. W. Miles, wife of the grand chancellor commander of the Knights of Pythias, of Crowley, La., who was in Monroe attending a special meeting of officers of Monroe Temple No. 1, Pythian Sisters. Mixed spring flowers, camellias, pansies and red buds filled the reception suite.

Interesting games were introduced and prizes were awarded by Mrs. J. W. Miles, Mrs. L. J. Hunnicutt and Mrs. E. Shows.

Mrs. Baur was assisted by Mrs. C. C. Blanchard in serving the following guests: Mrs. J. W. Miles, Mrs. W. T. Miles, Mrs. L. J. Hunnicutt, Mrs. E. Shows, Mrs. T. E. Chaney, Mrs. R. A. Gossett, Mrs. W. W. Thompson, Mrs. W. R. Jackson and Mrs. T. W. Thomason.

The Treble Cleff Music Coterie met on February 23 at Miss Beverly Martin's house. The co-hostesses were Agnes Jones, John Ann Lewis and Maurine Linquist.

After the roll call and minutes and business the program began.

Miss Biedenharn gave the text, "An Opera Preview," which was followed by Billie Harper playing "Dance of the Hours," from La Gioconda Ponchielli, giving a description of the strings of an orchestra described in the text. "I Dreamed I Dwelt in Marble Halls," by Balfe was played by Charles Dana Griffin, accompanied by Mrs. Sanders. The next two numbers were from the opera "Carmen." The first was "Habanera," played by Mary Wilton McHenry, the second "Toreador," played by Clara Munholland. Concluding the program was "Faust Ballet Duet," rendered by Miss Mary Grace Lawn and Martha McDonald.

The meeting was then adjourned and refreshments were served.

There will be an impressive installation service at the end of the convention conducted by Mrs. C. E. FIELD'S

Dear Children:

We Will Not Let You Die

GIVE-and they live. DON'T-and they die.

Yes, we know that you are starved and frightened and ill—your eyes haunted with horror and your hearts torn with longing for parents you saw go into gas chambers and crematoria.

But, dear Children, you need no longer wish for death to rescue you. We in America have resolved that you shall live, that your broken bodies shall be mended, your broken lives made whole. We are determined that we will give you the chance to grow up as useful, decent citizens—strong and proud and free.

Your brothers and sisters had the highest place on Hitler's priority of murder. But now you have the highest place on our priority of rescue. Hold fast to your little strength. Help is on the way from America!

THERE are 150,000 Jewish children left alive in Europe. In history's long record of suffering, they perhaps have suffered most.

The shape of Jewish life in Europe for generations to come depends on what we do for them.

They can be saved through the United Jewish Appeal. Its agencies can supply them with food and clothes and shelter—with the medical and spiritual aid which will spare them from the grave.

To save the Jewish men, women and children of Europe and to prepare a place for them in Palestine and elsewhere, the United Jewish Appeal needs a minimum of $100,000,000.

The plight of the Jewish survivors is far, far worse than that of other war victims. Most of them are not receiving any aid from inter-governmental sources. They call out to us not for preferential treatment, not for special favors, but merely for the chance to survive.

The sum of $100,000,000 can be raised, but only by the unprecedented generosity of the American community as a whole, and the Jewish community of America in particular.

We must give not only convenient dollars but sacrificial dollars. We must give not merely out of income but out of savings—yes, out of necessities if need be.

WORK for the United Jewish Appeal. Work as you've never worked before. Give us your time—your effort—your services. Write or phone us and say, "I want to do my part to save 1,400,000 lives!"

SACRIFICE! Can you honestly enjoy all the good things of life amid so much suffering? Do you feel quite right about being so comfortable, when over a million of your brothers starve . . . and live in fear?

GIVE when you are called on. Unprecedented generosity is needed for these unprecedented needs. Your 1946 gift will not be used as a standard in any future campaign.

Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

THE LONG, WAVERING CRY OF A BEAST IN DIST ●ISS DR FTED ACROSS THE FOREST. TANTOR THE ELEPHANT STOPPED TO LISTEN.

THE CRY INCREASED IN CRESCENDO TO A PIERCING SHRIEK. A MEMORY STIRRED IN TANTOR'S BRAIN.... THE VOICE....

....THEN HE KNEW! IT WAS TARZAN'S VOICE! LIKE A TITANIC ENGINE, THE PACHYDERM CRASHED THROUGH THE JUNGLE IN ANSWER TO THE CALL.

AFTER VOICING THE HELP CRY OF THE GREAT APES, TARZAN'S STRENGTH EBBED, AND THE MAD KE-LA ARMS CLAMPED EVER TIGHTER.

WHEN THE RAGING ELEPHANT FOUND TARZAN IN KE-LAK'S EMBRACE, A FIERCE BATTLE BETWEEN TANTOR AND KE-LAK BEGAN.

BUT KE-LAK WAS NO MATCH FOR TANTOR. TRUMPETING FIERCELY THE HUGE BEAST THREW HIS ADVERSARY INTO THE DUST. FEARFULLY, THE WEAK AND BRUISED KE-LAK CREPT AWAY.

WHEN THE ELEPHANT'S RAGE WAS SPENT, HE LIFTED TARZAN'S BROWN BODY AND BORE HIM AWAY INTO THE FOREST.

AS TANTOR PLODDED ON, THE SILENCE OF THE JUNGLE WAS SUDDENLY SHATTERED BY THE SCREAMS OF A DIMINUTIVE MONKEY.

IT WAS NKIMA, THE LITTLE MANU. AT SIGHT OF TARZAN'S INERT BODY, HE SWUNG EXCITEDLY ABOVE THE ELEPHANT, SCOLDING AND CHATTERING.

NKIMA PRESSED HIS CHEEK AGAINST THE BRONZED CHEEK OF THE GREAT TARMANGANI WHO WAS HIS MASTER AND GOD. WAS TARZAN DEAD?

FLASH GORDON

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

FLASH BROADCASTS SWIFT ORDERS, AS HE RACES TO THE NEAREST ROCKET FIELD: "RADAR TRACKERS, DON'T LOSE KANG'S ROCKET --- CALLING ALL PLANES-- DESTROY KANG AND SAVE OUR PLANET!"

"I'M FOLLOWING KANG, MYSELF. ZARKOV, TAKE OVER MONGO, AS VICE-PRESIDENT," FLASH SAYS ON THE RUN. DALE FOLLOWS HIM: "I'M COMING WITH YOU-- SO YOU WON'T THROW YOUR LIFE AWAY RECKLESSLY!"

N MONGO'S FASTEST ATOM POWER ROCKET, FLASH CLOSES IN ON KANG, BUT HIS RADAR CONFIRMS THE GROUND NETWORK'S REPORT: "THE MADMAN IS HEADING INTO THE WILDERNESS OF VALKR, WHERE DEATH STORMS SMASH OUR ROCKETS AND BLOCK OUR RADAR!"

"IF KANG CAN GET THROUGH, SO CAN WE. YOU CAN'T TURN BACK ON MY ACCOUNT, FLASH. WE MUST END THIS THREAT TO OUR WORLD," DALE SAYS. FLASH FEELS A SURGE OF PRIDE: "GOOD GIRL!--PILOT, FULL SPEED AHEAD!"

Copr. 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

THE ILL-FAMED "DEATH STORMS" FILL THE SKY. FLASH TAKES THE WHEEL, BUT NOT EVEN HIS SKILL CAN CONQUER SHEET LIGHTNING AND HURRICANE. THE CRIPPLED ROCKET TWISTS DOWNWARD TO THE UNMAPPED WILDERNESS OF VALKR. 3-17-46

Little Orphan Annie

ONEY HOLLY NEVER HEARD OF THE BOOK OF TOBIT BUT SHE TOO BELIEVED IN GIVING HAVE BUT A LITTLE. BE NOT AFRAID TO GIVE according to that little."

I KNOW HOW YOU MUST FEEL WANTIN' TO DO SOMETHIN' FOR THE BOYS OVER THERE BUT SORRY IS TOUGH JUST WAITIN'

I WANT TO MAIL THIS SO IT WILL GO OUT FIRST THING TOMORROW

IS IT A LETTER TO FRED?

NO - THERE'S NO USE WRITING TO FRED - NO PLACE TO SEND IT HE'S BEEN MISSING SO LONG - THIS IS TO THE RED CROSS...

THE RED CROSS? DO YOU KNOW SOMEBODY IN TH' RED CROSS?

NO - IT'S ONLY MONEY I CAN'T SEND MUCH, OF COURSE, BUT EVERY BIT HELPS - AND IT MAY HELP FRED...

YEAH - I'VE HEARD THAT TH' RED CROSS HELPS SOLDIERS A LOT - AND THEY DO IT FOR NOTHIN'

THEY HELP MILLIONS - JUST TWO YEARS AGO WHEN THE DAM BROKE DOWN AT JOHNSTOWN, PA. AND FLOOD LEFT EVERY THING - THE RED CROSS SAVED OVER A HUNDRED LIVES, FED EVERYBODY, FOUND FOLKS NEW HOMES!

YES - IT'S ALL FREE TO THOSE WHO NEED IT, ANNIE - BUT IT COSTS MILLIONS AND MILLIONS - THE FOLKS WHO NEED THE HELP CAN'T PAY, OF COURSE - NOT THEN -

MANY OF THEM NEVER HAVE ANYTHING - BUT PLENTY OF US CAN HELP - IF WE DON'T FORGET...

YEAH... I GUESS IT'S AWFUL EASY TO FORGET... WHEN WE'RE DOIN' O. K....

BUT, WITH FRED OUT THERE SOMEWHERE, NEEDING HELP... I CAN'T FORGET - AND I KNOW IF ANYONE CAN FIND AND HELP HIM IT WILL BE THE RED CROSS - IF THEY HAVE THE MONEY THEY MUST HAVE TO KEEP GOING -

SEE! A HUNDRED AND THIRTY MILLION 'MERICANS MORE'N THAT - WHY AT EVEN A DOLLAR APIECE - A DOLLAR ISN'T SO MUCH!

BUT DON'T FORGET, MILLIONS CAN'T - OR DON'T - GIVE A CENT MAYBE THEY FORGET NO - IT'S OUR JOB -

IT'S ALWAYS THE SAME, I GUESS - IT'S UP TO FOLKS WHO CAN, TO DO ALL THEY CAN TO HELP FOLKS WHO CAN'T...

THAT'S WHY WE HERE DO EVEN OUR LITTLE BIT - MOST FOLKS ARE LIKE THAT... IT'S NOT A LAW, BUT JUST PLAIN, DECENT AMERICANISM, GRAMPAW SAYS...
